ALL LAW VIOLATED BY WARTIME RULE IN STRIKE REGION

So Decide Probers After First Day's Investigation of Conditions in the West Virginia Coal Fields.

ABSOLUTE DOMINION ASSUMED BY MILITARY

Members of Commission Admit Trials Were Conducted Without Regard to Civil Laws of State.

Charleston, W. Va., June 11.—Wartime rule in the coal strike regions of West Virginia was described before the senate mine investigating committee here today, and after three military officers had described conditions the committee expressed itself as to the charge that the "citizens of West Virginia had been tried and convicted in violation of the constitution and laws of the United States."

Two members of the military commission which at three different times assumed absolute dominion over some 150 square miles of West Virginia territory testified this afternoon. They were Captain Charles R. Morgan, a lawyer, and Major James I. Pratt, who was president of the second military court which took charge of the strike district. Both told the committee that their proceedings were conducted without regard to the civil laws of the state; that they arrested, arraigned, tried and convicted offenders in the strike zone without recourse to process of the civil courts and imposed sentences without regard to the limitations imposed by the statutes of West Virginia.

Acted As in Wartime.

"We considered the entire strike district was in a state of actual warfare," said Captain Morgan, with soldiery frankness, "and we acted according to the procedure of the United States army in time of war."

"My understanding was," said Captain Morgan, "that during this state of insurrection which prevailed the constitution still further to extend our suffrage so that we will have full suffrage, the fact that an eastern state has taken this action will give the national movement a great impetus."

Suffrage Leaders Jubilant.

Chicago, June 11.—Leaders of the woman's suffrage movement in Chicago were jubilant tonight over the news from Springfield.

"It is the biggest thing that has happened east of the Mississippi since the civil war," said Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, one of the pioneer workers for equal suffrage in this state.

"Although we are given the right to vote for president and most municipal officers and although it will require an amendment to the state constitution still further to extend our suffrage so that we will have full suffrage, the fact that an eastern state has taken this action will give the national movement a great impetus."

Customers Wrote Senators.

John F. Hamburg, of New York, manager of the large Hawaiian sugar firm, admitted his firm had urged all of their 1,500 or more customers to write to senators and representatives pointing out the destruction to business that would follow free sugar.

"We had to do that to overcome some of the misstatements that had been made in the free sugar campaign," he said.

Plainly resentful of the president's recent statements in the operation of an "insidious lobby" in Washington, the Louisiana and Hawaiian sugar men refused at the hearings to tell of the pledges they believed they had received that sugar would not be made entirely free. Julius Godchaux and Edward F. Dickinson, the two Louisiana witnesses, declared they had tried in vain to see the president, but had been informed that he had all the information he wanted on the sugar tariff.

Mr. Dickinson declared the president had failed to deal with any "practical sugar man" about the Louisiana situation and that he had secured most of his information from the National committeeman Robert E. Wirg, a newspaper man, Sol Wexler, a banker, Representative Broussard and Senators Rayner and Thornton.

"I have never seen Mr. Wilson on the sugar subject," interrupted Senator Thornton, who was sitting in the committee room.

Broussard's Statement.

Charges of the sugar men that they had been given assurances of the president's sympathy on the sugar question were based on statements Representative Broussard had given to have made to the witness after a visit to President-elect Wilson at Seagirt.

"I was informed," Mr. Broussard," said Harry Irwin, representing the Hilo, Hawaii, Board of Trade, "that a plan underwriting and guarantee, such as would not destroy any legitimate industry, was prepared in Mr. Wilson's presence and sanctioned by Mr. Wilson with direct reference to the sugar question."

The fact that the Baltimore convention did not endorse free sugar and other circumstances of the campaign, the witness said, had led them to "work ticket and vote against but support Mr. Wilson in the belief they would "have nothing to fear" from any movement for free sugar.

Between 50,000 or 60,000 votes for Wilson and subscribed to his campaign in Louisiana, said Jules Godchaux today, "on the assurance we thought we had that he would not favor free sugar."

After they got to Washington, Mr. Godchaux said, the sugar planters made vain efforts to see the president and talk with him. "We went to the white house and saw Secretary Tumulty," he added. "He told us we could not see the president, that he had particular instructions that the president did not want any appointments made with any one from Louisiana to talk about sugar; that he had all the information he wanted on that subject."

Not an Insidious Lobbyist.

Mr. Dickinson was emphatic in his statements that he was not an "insidious lobbyist," declaring he had looked the term up and found it meant "deceitful, lying and treacherous."

"Do you know of any misleading statements that have been circulated?" asked Senator Overman.

"Why, yes, some of these statements and bulletins put out by the free sugar advocates are not truthful," he answered.

"Well, you admit there is insidious lobbying, then," retorted Senator Overman. "Please remember that the president has not charged you or your associates with being 'insidious.'"

Mr. Dickinson declared Mr. Ewing

Woman Suffrage Bill Passed in Illinois House

Governor Will Sign Measure Giving Women Right to Vote for All Statutory Offices.

Springfield, Ill., June 11.—The woman's suffrage bill, granting women the right to vote for all statutory offices in the state of Illinois, was passed by the house today by a vote of 83 ayes to 58 nays.

Pending notice of a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, it will remain in possession of the house. Unless the house reconsiders its vote, which is considered not likely, the suffrage bill will be up to Governor Dunne by the latter part of the present week for executive approval or vote.

In order to give notice of a motion to reconsider, Representative McCarty, democrat, of Chicago, changed his vote from "nay" to "aye." He gave the formal notice that on the next legislative day he would move a reconsideration.

The limited suffrage bill, which is now only a few steps from becoming a law, was introduced in the senate on February 11 by Senator P. S. Magill, republican, and was passed by the upper branch of the general assembly early in May.

When the roll call had been completed today the measure was one vote short of a constitutional majority. Speaker McKinley, whose name is last on the roll, had cast the seventy-sixth vote by ordering a call of the absentees. Representative Barker's name was the first absentee called. A shout went up when he voted for the bill. Four others voted for the bill after it had received the seventy-seven votes necessary to pass it.

"I will sign the bill with great pleasure," said Governor Dunne tonight, "unless there should be a well-grounded objection as to its constitutionality. This I do not expect. I have favored woman's suffrage for many years, although it was not part of our platform last fall."

SERRANTE RELEASED BY AID OF MINISTERS

Atlanta Baptist Ministers Interested Themselves in Behalf of Syracuse Preacher.

Through the interest of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers conference, Victor W. Serrante, a Baptist minister, of Syracuse, N. Y., was pardoned Monday and Wednesday received his release from the Atlanta Federal prison.

About two years ago, it is said, a foreigner called at the home of Rev. Serrante, in Syracuse, and asked the minister to find him work. Later the foreigner called at the home on counterfeiting charge, and Rev. Serrante was found in his company at the time of the arrest. He is said to have been convicted upon circumstantial evidence, and was sentenced to ten years in the federal prison. Upon hearing of his case the Baptist ministers of the city became interested and were instrumental in securing his pardon.

Rev. Serrante called upon a number of people Wednesday afternoon, who had helped him, and thanked them. He left Wednesday night at 9 o'clock for Syracuse, where he will join his family.

POSTAL DEPARTMENT DODGES RENT PAYING

$5,500,000 Should Be Charged Department for Use of Buildings, Says Bourne.

Washington, June 11.—Rental charges of approximately $5,500,000 should be made against the postal service for the use of space in federal buildings throughout the country, according to Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., chairman of the congressional commissions investigating matters of railway mail service and second-class postage.

In a statement today, Mr. Bourne said it had been the practice when a city postoffice was moved from rented quarters into a new federal building to cease charging rent against the postal service. On the strength of information he had secured from the custodian of all federal buildings, Senator Bourne estimated the rental space in words 35,514,797, and that this sum should be directly charged to the rental fund or the postoffice department.

THREE INCHES OF SNOW FALL IN NORTH CAROLINA

Bristol, Va., June 11.—A special from Bakersville, N. C., says that 3 inches of snow fell in Mitchell county this morning. The weather in this entire mountain section has been the coldest three days that has ever been known in June. Cattle owners in western North Carolina report that they will be compelled to pen their cattle and feed them owing to the grass all being covered with snow.

SUGAR LOBBYISTS ACCUSE WILSON OF UNFAIRNESS

Say They Were Told They Would Have Nothing to Fear From Free Sugar Under His Administration.

ADMIT THEY ATTEMPTED TO CREATE "BACK FIRES"

Witnesses Don't Deny They Constitute Lobby, But Declare Actions Afe Not "Insidious," But Legitimate.

Washington, June 11.—Investigation of the "sugar lobby" by the senate lobby committee today was to a marked extent a controversy over whether President Wilson had given the sugar producers reason to believe they would have "nothing to fear" from free sugar under his administration.

Out of the day's testimony, in which Louisiana and Hawaiian witnesses repeatedly declared they had not received fair treatment from the president and had been misled by others as to his purpose, the committee succeeded in drawing what are believed to be some of the most important facts thus far developed. Some of the sugar men frankly admitted they constituted a "lobby," although they objected to the charge that any of their actions had been "insidious" or in any way illegitimate or underhanded. They admitted that comprehensive campaigns had been organized and carried out to create "back fires" on senators and representatives from their own states in the hope of winning their support to the anti-free sugar side.

"The prosperity of Louisiana was at stake," said Jules Godchaux, a sugar planter. "We tried to get the people we did business with to write senators and representatives telling them that free sugar would destroy the business of the state. We asked them to wire and write Washington and to ask the merchants they did business with in the United States to do the same. We tried to establish an endless chain of letters and telegrams to draw attention of congress to our arguments."

Customers Wrote Senators.

John F. Hamburg, of New York, manager of the large Hawaiian sugar firm, admitted his firm had urged all of their 1,500 or more customers to write to senators and representatives pointing out the destruction to business that would follow free sugar.

Broussard's Statement.

Charges of the sugar men that they had been given assurances of the president's sympathy on the sugar question were based on statements Representative Broussard had given to have made to the witness after a visit to President-elect Wilson at Seagirt.

"I was informed," Mr. Broussard," said Harry Irwin, representing the Hilo, Hawaii, Board of Trade, "that a plan underwriting and guarantee, such as would not destroy any legitimate industry, was prepared in Mr. Wilson's presence and sanctioned by Mr. Wilson with direct reference to the sugar question."

World's Biggest Ship Starts on Maiden Trip

Hamburg, June 11.—The giant steamship Imperator of the Hamburg-American line started from here on her maiden trip to New York at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

She started from an anchorage in the open roadstead. She is too big to lie at the regular pier and rooted up her special moorings in the recent gale.

The Titanic was the world's greatest ship when she sailed from this port and went down in mid-Atlantic a little more than a year ago. Every precaution has been taken to prevent such a fate befalling the Imperator. She has lifeboats for all and a double hull. She is built on a vast scale in everything. Her anchors for instance, establish new records for size and strength. Although a trans-Atlantic liner may not use her anchors for years at a time, they are always kept in position and in perfect working order.

The Imperator carries no less than five great anchors. Her main anchor weighs 26,455 pounds and is the largest in the world. There are two additional bow anchors weighing 17,636 pounds; a fourth of 11,436 pounds and a warp anchor of 4,960 pounds. Anchor chains are provided large and strong enough to hold the great ship. Every link of the chains is of hardened steel and is designed with a crossbar that they may not tangle. The combined length of these chains is 1,280 yards, or about three-quarters of a mile. The combined weight of the five anchors and the chains is 485,032 pounds, which alone would make an important item of cargo for an ordinary vessel. The anchors are designed with long, sharpened flukes to prevent them from dragging. Should they ever be used the pull exerted against them would, of course, be enormous. The Imperator has a length of 919 feet, a beam of 98 feet and a tonnage of 50,000.

MAY FORCE PUPILS TO ATTEND SCHOOL

Fullbright to Renew Fight This Summer—Only Six States Without Compulsory Law.

Compulsory education will again be a live issue in the legislature this summer. It will be recalled what a hard fight Dr. J. R. Littleton, of Richmond county, made for compulsory education legislation when he was in the house several years ago. Since Dr. Littleton retired from the legislature, the cudgels for the principle he advocated have been taken up by H. J. Fullbright, of Macon county.

Mr. Fullbright is the author of a measure for compulsory school attendance which received a favorable report from the house committee on education last summer. He will introduce a bill again this year and is very hopeful of its passage.

Provisions of Bill.

In drawing his measure, Mr. Fullbright has taken pains to meet most of the objections that were urged against the Littleton bill. In brief the measure provides for a school census of all children between the ages of seven and twelve to be taken each year. All such children are to be required to attend school for as much as sixty days during the school year. Teachers whose names appear on the school census and who are shown by the reports of teachers and superintendents not to have attended the required sixty days, and who are not exempt by reason of inaccessibility to a school or by reason of mental or physical defects, will be liable as pursued by the county superintendents. The boards of education of the respective counties will then be authorized to cite the parents or guardians of such children to show cause why they have not had these children to attend school as required by law. The bill further provides for the imposition of fines by the boards of delinquent parents and guardians and for a trial by a state court where this is desired.

Give Boards Discretion.

The measure does not require the boards to take such a step, but empowers them to do so and leaves action discretionary with them in each individual case. This provision, it is believed, will answer the objection of those opponents of compulsory education who claim that a measure of that sort would simply result in forcing all negro children to attend school without materially benefiting the white children of the state.

State Superintendent M. L. Brittain is heartily in favor of a measure of compulsory educat on, though he wants a sane and moderate law and not a radical one. When asked for his opinion in connection with the reappearance of the Fullbright bill this summer, he said:

"Conditions in our state, in my judgment, would not enable us to enforce a strict compulsory law. It does seem to me, however, that we have waited long enough for legislation along this line. With a reasonable age limit of from eight to twelve years, and a term of four or five months, giving boards of education the right to excuse from attendance in cases of peculiar hardship and in cases affecting the negroes particularly, it should be possible to secure legislation that will be helpful in moral as well as legal effect, inflict no hardship upon our people, and give us ground upon which to stand for further advancement later.

Only Six States Without Law.

"Georgia is one of the only six states having no form of law with regard to compulsory school attendance. Within the last few weeks North Carolina has adopted this legislation and besides this, the general assembly of that state requires each county to maintain schools for a term of, at least, six months in the year and appropriates $400,000 extra for this purpose.

BILL DRAWN TO COVER INTRASTATE RATES

Willis to Introduce Measure Extending Jurisdiction of Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, June 11.—Extension of the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission over intrastate rates on interstate railroads, in accordance with suggestions in the Minnesota rate decision, will be proposed in a bill now being prepared by Representative Willis, of Ohio, a republican member of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee.

The basic principle of this measure will be the right of congress to control absolutely the instrumentalities of interstate commerce, even to the extent of regulating the rates of each state. Such is Representative Willis' interpretation of what the supreme court held in the Minnesota rate cases to lie within the power of congress.

The bill may be patterned after the federal safety appliance acts. Since the decision in the Minnesota rate cases these laws have been pointed to as instances where congress has seen fit to exercise its jurisdiction in state matters because certain matters picked up by employees in the domestic science department and placed in a chair until surgeons could be summoned, but Arnold evidently was dead from the moment he hit the floor.

The space through which the body shot is but three feet wide and it is hard to see how it dropped so far without striking one side or the other.

Arnold, 20 years old, was being treated for a nervous trouble, his mother being here with him.

Shock to Elberton.

Elberton, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—News reached here of the death today at Battle Creek, Mich., of Clifton Arnold, the eldest son of W. T. Arnold. In company with his mother he had recently gone to Battle Creek for treatment. His death is a shock to the community. He was about 24 years of age and unmarried, and one of the most exemplary young men of this section. The remains will be brought at once to Elberton for interment.

POPE VIEWS "MOVIES" IN CONSISTORIAL HALL

Rome, June 11.—A moving picture machine was set up in the consistorial hall at the vatican today and Pope Pius X., surrounded by his sisters and niece, the papal secretary of state and other vatican dignitaries, enjoyed many interesting views. He commented on the progress of science which permitted the unfolding of the wonders of the world before even a prisoner like himself.

TARIFF CHANGES WILL BE COSTLY

Free Listing of Articles by Subcommittees Means Loss of Nearly $1,500,000 if Approved.

Washington, June 11.—Changes in the Underwood tariff bill by the senate finance subcommittees, transferring proposed dutiable articles to the free list, will aggregate an estimated annual loss in revenue to the government of nearly a million and a half dollars a year.

This curtailment of the total estimated revenue under the house bill is based only on articles known to have been transferred to the free list thus far upon subcommittee recommendations, and does not take into account decreases in duties which will be proposed on many articles. Added to the $25,000,000 estimated loss in revenue under the house bill free list, this would aggreate $26,500,000.

Hemp to Free List.

Included in the senate list are the revenues that would be derived from hemp, which the Underwood bill makes dutiable, but which, the senate subcommittee today decided should be transferred to the free list. Hemp will be sent to the caucus on the free list, on the ground that it belongs there, if other products of the farm, such as cattle and wheat are to be freelisted, as it would result in cheapening twine to the farmers and compensate them somewhat by reducing their harvest expenditures. Hemp, both plain and hackled, the subcommittee proposes to remove from the dutiable list, the former from $11.20 a ton, and the latter from 1 cent a pound in the Underwood bill.

Some of this loss in revenue may be made up by countervailing duties on certain agricultural products, but this amount, it is estimated, will not be large.

Among the articles which the senate subcommittees have added to the free list and the estimated revenues cut off, are: Pig iron, $120,000; ferro manganese and spiegeleisen, $126,500; hemp, $78,400; live stock, $583,000; wheat, $200,000; photographic films, $210,000; cedar wood, $10,000; coaltar dyes, $90,000—a total of $1,417,900.

Today the majority members of the finance committee opposed publication at this time of detailed changes in the Underwood bill approved by them on subcommittee recommendations.

Cotton Schedule Changes.

The committee today had under consideration the changes in the cotton schedule, proposed by Senator Johnson's subcommittee. Most of them were approved, but one or two matters were referred back to the subcommittee for further consideration in this schedule the net result of the altered rates will increase the average cotton rates in the Underwood bill about 5 per cent, the principal changes affecting cotton yarns. This is probably the only schedule in which senate action will result in an increase.

The majority members of the committee declare their action should be guarded as much as possible until the caucus can have a chance to act, because the caucus might in some matters reverse or otherwise alter their decisions.

The metal and earthenware schedules were considered for a time today, but discussion on them was continued until tomorrow.

Senator Williams' subcommittee is still working on the income tax and administrative provisions of the bill, but expects to report tomorrow. It has been decided to eliminate the anti-dumping clause and the 5 per cent tariff discount on imports on American ships, and some modification will be reported of the provisions directing foreign manufacturers to submit their books when valuations are in dispute. The income tax also will be modified to give mutual life insurance an opportunity to claim exemption by proving they are not conducting for profit.

GRAND JURY WILL PROBE AFFIDAVITS ABOUT DICTAGRAPH

Investigation of Charges and Counter Charges Will Begin at Early Date and Will Be Exhaustive One.

LANFORD SAYS GENTRY WILL DENY AFFIDAVIT

Affidavit Is Made Declaring Dictagraph Instrument Was Secured by Chief Lanford For Use in Phagan Case.

Following close on the heels of the publication of the George M. Gentry affidavit, in which the young stenographer states that his typewritten report of the dictagraph conversation was padded, and says that he left town after he had discovered that he had fallen in with a crowd of crooks," comes the assurance that the grand jury will at once make a searching probe of the detective department in an effort to establish the truth regarding the many charges and counter charges that have been afloat since the dictagraph sensation was sprung.

Members of the grand jury take the position that if the Gentry affidavit is true, it constitutes a stinging indictment of the detective department —an indictment which should not be allowed to stand longer than it will take to uncover the facts.

Records Are Sought, Says Lanford.

Chief of Detectives Lanford defends his department and his own personal connection with the sensation with the declaration that the dictagraph reports, as published, were absolutely correct, and that reports to the contrary are not only false, but will be proved untrue.

Impelled by public sentiment the dictagraph incident created, it is authentically stated that the grand jury probe will be made at a very early date, and will be an exhaustive one.

While contradicted by Gentry's affidavit and statements from the trio of dictagraph "victims"—Mayor Woodward, Colonel Felder and Charles Jones—on February, secretary to Chief Lanford, stoutly maintains that the dictagraph notes were accurate and that there were no discrepancies whatever in the published copies.

Probing Gentry's Departure.

Developments were many Wednesday as a result of the stenographer's testimony. Chief Lanford declared to reporters that he was investigating Gentry's departure from the city with a view to substantiating his theory that the youth was lured to Washington by Ed Mims, acting for people "higher up."

An affidavit setting forth the statement that Lanford obtained the dictagraph instrument on the pretense of using it only to corroborate evidence in the Mary Phagan mystery, has been attested to by L. O. Surles, who is attached to the Southern Bell Telephone company, and a close representative of the dictagraph concern.

L. O. Surles Makes Affidavit.

It follows:

Georgia, Fulton County—Personally appeared before the undersigned, a notary public duly authorized by law to administer oaths, L. O. Surles, who, first being duly and legally sworn, deposeth and saith: That he is an employee of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, and hereafore represented, as agent, the General Accoustics company.

Deponnent further says on oath that on Wednesday, the 31st day of May, 1913, Newport Lanford, chief of detectives, called him over the phone, requesting that he install a dictagraph in an important case, and that it must be done by 10:30 on the same morning. Deponent thereupon left at the office of Chief Lanford, who stated that he desired the dictagraph to corroborate important evidence in the Phagan murder mystery, whereupon deponent consented to install the dictagraph, upon the understanding that his name would not be used in connection with said installation. Chief Lanford assured deponent that he would comply with said request. Deponent was directed to reach Surles in the Williams house, where the dictagraph was installed under direction of one Febuary and one Colyar, who were understood by deponent to be representatives of Chief Lanford's office. The installation being completed about 1 p. m. on Wednesday, the 21st day of May, 1913. After the installation deponent left the premises, and was called to remove the instrument on the following day. The removal was made about 5:30 p. m. on Thursday, the 22d day of May, 1913.

Deponent further states on oath that at no time during the interview with Chief Lanford, during the installation of said dictagraph or thereafter, was there any intimation that the instrument was to be used for any other purpose than for corroborating evidence in the Phagan murder mystery.

Deponent further states on oath that this affidavit was dictated by him personally and voluntarily, in order to clearly state his position in any controversy arising over his connection with said installation.

Felder Parallels Statements.

This affidavit has inspired Colonel Felder to draw a parallel of extracts from one of his statements recently published and from a reply made by Chief Lanford. He accuses the detectives of having lied regarding the negotiations with Surles prior to the installation of the dictagraph.

The first extract is from a card addressed by Colonel Felder to Chief Lanford. It follows:

"You lied to Surles, of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, to induce him to install the so-called dictagraph; you lied to him in promising him not to use his name—you disclosed it in an effort to give respectability to the conspiracy by publishing: 'The instrument used in dictagraphing Felder was installed by Surles, electrician of the Southern Bell Telephone company.'"

The extract from Lanford's answer is:

"He says I promised Surles that I would not use his name. Here, again, he lies. All I said to Surles while negotiating with him to install the dictagraph was that I intended to use it in the interest of justice."

Detectives Went Gentry.

That every effort will be made by the detective department to return Gentry to Atlanta, was a statement made by Lanford. If any legal means can be found, he said, and the stenographer refuses to come back to Georgia, he will be brought back under charges of perjury.

Chief Beavers, who is in Washington attending the annual convention of national police heads, has been wired by the detective chief to find Gentry and investigate his affidavit. No reply was received from him up to late last night. He was also asked to persuade Gentry to return with him to Atlanta.

If Gentry had made this affidavit in Atlanta, Chief Lanford said, "I would take instant action against him for perjury. We can do nothing with him as long as the deed was committed in Washington. He had better be glad, however, that he was that far away. That is, considering, of course, that he left the paper, and is not denying its genuineness myself. I think it's a forgery.

"If Gentry comes back, he'll tell the truth, and prove our assertions that the affidavit is false and that the statements we made are absolutely correct. He will come shortly. I have detailed men to investigate the cause of his departure, and it is my theory that he was taken out of the city by this Miles, who was acting under instructions of influence higher up."

Felder in Seclusion.

"I do not believe Gentry is the kind of man to swear to one affidavit and then make another contradicting his first statement. He impresses me as being a clean-cut, honest youth, who will act according to the dictates of his conscience, no matter not what be the circumstances."

Febuary stated to a reporter that he will swear to the accuracy of the published dictagraph reports, and that if Gentry persists in his purported story, he will personally take action against the stenographer for alleged perjury. He says the affidavit is the result of a frame-up of the "ring," who were affected by the dictagraph incident.

"Gentry's affidavit bears out my contention that the entire matter was a frame-up on the part of Lanford and his hirelings," said Colonel Felder. "It is complete vindication. Everyone now agrees with me that Frank was the innocent victim of a conspiracy.

"As far as I personally am concerned, the incident is closed. Gentry will return to Atlanta within the next ten days and will have something additional to say. It is reported that I possess the key to the vault in which are contained Gentry's original notes. This is erroneous. They are safe in the hands of a responsible attorney."

Grand Jury Probe Needed.

"The grand jury will do Atlanta a real service by investigating this vile dictagraph business." Mayor Woodward declared Wednesday afternoon. "The sooner it is taken up and the deeper the grand jury goes into it the better pleased I'll be.

"The whole business, on its face, looks like a plot, like a frame me. If I am guilty of anything I want the grand jury to expose me. If I have been victimized I feel that it is the duty of the grand jury to expose me, and if those who tried to frame up on me are guilty of unbecoming conduct I think it is the duty of the grand jury to say so.

"I am satisfied that the people of Atlanta now know the truth. Gentry's affidavit has vindicated me. But it has placed the police department in a bad light in the eyes of the people of Atlanta. If the mayor of the city is not safe from underhand attacks such as this dictagraph plot has been shown to be, God help our citizens.

"And right here let me say that the police commission can do a whole lot to restore public confidence by making an investigation of its own accord."

George Gentry's mother, when seen by a Constitution reporter at her home last night, would not discuss the report that she had sworn to an affidavit, which stated that her son, shortly before his departure from the city, had told her of the dictagraph 'hading,' and had given as the reason for his flight the fear of being arrested on a rumored warrant.

Mrs. Gentry said that she did not care to tell the date on which she expected the tenographer's return. She explained that it was his affair, not his family's, and that this was the reason why they were maintaining silence.

AD MEN RECEIVED BY THE PRESIDENT

Atlanta Delegation Enjoys Day in Washington—Ad Men Plan to Enforce Truthful Advertising.

By Fred Houser.

Baltimore, Md., June 11.—(Special.) Newspaper men and advertising writers joined hands today at the convention of the Associated Ad clubs to drive the crooked newspapers and crooked advertising out of business. Rules to revolutionize newspaper advertising will be put before the convention as a whole tomorrow. James Keeley, of the Chicago Tribune, read the report of the newspaper committee.

The conference resulted in the framing of a drastic set of rules which will be submitted to the general convention probably tomorrow. They are: To eliminate questionable and periodicals used by advertisers be required; To give the whole truth about their circulation, quantity, location and how secured.

To print advertisements of demonstrably reliable concerns only, censored to exclude manifest exaggerations, slurs or offensive matter of any kind.

To refrain in the "makeup" from putting advertising in a position to be injuriously affected by the neighborhood of incongruous or repellant matter.

To adopt the "flat rate" plan, without secret rebate or concession.

Ads Must be Truthful.

That hargain announcements in newspapers and periodicals be only of legitimate and truthful low price offerings, excluding fake comparisons and misleading claims of value.

That advertising managers, while being rigidly held responsible for the verity of their business announcements, should be empowered by their employers to command the truthful cooperation of those from whom they obtain advertising information.

Chicago played a trump card this morning in bringing to the convention a representative of the commerce association pledging a fund of $50,000 for the 1914 convention.

Wednesday night the convention delegates enjoyed a cabaret show, and the ladies a Maryland dinner at Gwynn Oak park.

Good Advertising Exhibit.

Probably the most complete and best arranged exhibit in the agricultural department of the advertising exposition which is being held in the convention hall was placed there by an Atlanta firm. The Southern Ruralist displays seventy-five display advertisements showing the classes of business that are peculiar to the southern territory. L. D. Hicks, who selected and placed this display, has been highly commented by hundreds of Farm Journal publishers who are here attending the convention.

Part of Atlanta's delegation spent the day in Washington, where they entertained Congressman William Schley Howard at a luncheon at the New Willard. They were joined by Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo and Secretary of the Interior Franklin P. Lane.

Received by President.

Congressman Howard escorted the delegation to the white house, where they were received by President Wilson in the east room. Mrs. Albert S. Adams presented the president with a beautiful bouquet of roses. The other ladies present were Mrs. L. D. Hicks and Miss Eleanor Montgomery, of Richmond. It is to Jack Lewis that the party is indebted for the delightful luncheon. President Harry Goodhart is all smiles, and says he has never been prouder of the "Gate City of the South." John Temple Graves was also with Willard while a number of Atlanta men round him. He left wearing Atlanta colors.

Ivan Allen, of the convention bureau, called on George Harris, vice president of the Photographers' association of America, with a delegation and secured their support for this convention in 1914 in Atlanta. This convention carries 2,000 delegates and is held at Kansas City next month.

SUGAR LOBBYISTS ACCUSE WILSON

and others who had talked with the president before he had made up his mind as to the sugar tariff could not have explained the situation as a "practical suggestion of politics."

"Why did Mr. Ewing come here?" asked Chairman Overman.

"I think he felt it was his duty," replied Mr. Dickinson.

"He raised some $20,000 in Louisiana to help elect Mr. Wilson, and seeing the donation that was now to be wrought by the free sugar policy, I think he felt remorseful."

Chairman Hardy had informed him, Mr. Dickinson said, that "he thought two-thirds of the senate finance committee were against free sugar, but that three- fourths would vote for it."

The character of the country wide campaign organized against free sugar was detailed by the witnesses. They declared they acted on the belief that protests and arguments from a senator's constituents would attract more attention than those coming directly from the sugar people.

Tried to Get Everybody.

"We tried to get everybody we could to write letters and send telegrams," Mr. Dickinson said.—"Mule raisers in Missouri, cotton mill men in North Carolina, dredge builders, makers of axes, wedges—anybody who did any business with us. We asked them all to write and wire you, to try and convince you of the destruction that would come with free sugar."

The committee had not finished with the anti-free sugar witnesses when it adjourned tonight. After several more have been heard the committee will begin the examination of those who have conducted the free sugar publicity campaign. The chief of these is Frank C. Lowry, of New York, who testified before another congressional committee that he was employed by the Federal Sugar Refining company.

ON BOTTOM OF OCEAN FOR THIRTY-SIX HOURS

Long Beach, Cal., June 11.—The submergence record for submarine boats was broken here today by a locally constructed vessel, which came to the surface at 5 p. m. after having rested on the bottom of the ocean off the city for thirty-six hours. The six men who made the endurance test were apparently none the worse for the long stay under the water.

The previous record was twenty-four hours, made by the United States submarine Octopus, in 1907.

testimony in a case it went into secret session, executed sealed findings after the manner of a verdict, and sent them to the judge.

"Then the poor devil did not know what you had done with him until he was gotten up and carted away to the penitentiary," suggested the New Jersey senator.

"That's right," answered Captain Morgan, and the spectators smiled.

Forty-Nine Tried at Once.

It was developed that as many as forty-nine accused were tried at one time by the commission.

"There was no opportunity given a man to secure a new trial on the discovery of new evidence, no opportunity to give bail, no possibility of the issuance of a stay of execution; your decision was first, last and final," suggested Mr. Monnet.

"Yes," answered Captain Morgan.

"If you had sentenced a man to death there was no way of stopping the execution if the governor approved it?" asked Senator Borah.

"We did not contemplate imposing death sentences," replied the witness.

"I think the committee has ample testimony on this branch of the inquiry," remarked Senator Borah. "The statement of facts seem full and complete."

Adjutant General Charles D. Elliott had occupied the morning session and part of the afternoon session. Tonight Senator Borah took up witnesses produced by the mine workers to testify as to charges that peonage obtains in the Paint and Cabin Creek sections. A hundred brawny miners came in from the hills today, and the attorneys for the mine workers ordered out the witnesses they wanted to call in connection with this branch of the inquiry.

Following today's session's work, the committee decided to divide up the inquiry tomorrow, allowing Senator Borah to proceed alone with his peonage investigation, probably have Senator Kenyon begin an individual inquiry into general conditions in the strike district, and remainder of the committee covered other branches of the inquiry.

General Elliott On Stand.

Adjutant General Charles D. Elliott, of West Virginia, who was in command of the military in the strike zone, was the first witness today. He was examined at length as to the date on which the various periods of martial law began. General Elliott presented copies of the requests of the sheriffs of Kanawha, Raleigh and Fayette counties for military aid, and various orders of former Governor Glasscock establishing martial law.

Under examination by Senator Borah, General Elliott described the trial of offenders by the military court after the civil courts had been superseded.

The documents produced by General Elliott showed fifty-one men sentenced by the military court. Robert Hatfield, a mine guard, chrged with doing police duty as a non-resident of the state, was sentenced twice, according to the list, each time to pay a fine of $500 and to serve six months in prison. In another similar case a guard was fined $100 and sentenced to sixty days. Among other sentences shown were:

For "intimidation of workmen," thirty-two prisoners, six months each.

The list accounted for all but two cases under the first martial law period. These two cases were marked "missing from the files."

General Elliott said orders restoring martial law last February were modified by Governor Hatfield, annulling that portion of the proclamation which placed the military above civil authorities.

The militia, the witness said, now are working under the civil courts

"While you were in charge in the martial law zone, you made arrests on your own responsibility, without a writ or warrant from any civil court" asked Senator Borah.

"Yes," said General Elliott.

No Record of Trial.

General Elliott said that he had no record of the proceedings of the military courts established under the second and third declarations of martial law. He said that at the time he had practically the entire militia organization of the state in the field.

Under cross examination by Attorney Belcher for the miners, General Elliott said the controversy prior to the declaration of martial law was solely between the miners and operators.

"Was there any state of insurrection in the strike zone prior to the declaration of martial law?" asked Mr. Belcher.

"The governor evidently thought there was," said the witness.

General Elliott said he knew Representative S. R. Davis, former prosecutor, had told Governor Glasscock that he could not get action in the courts to subdue the riotous conditions. This, he said, was one of the reasons the governor declared martial law.

The witness said his troops had captured five or six machine guns in the affected district.

General Elliott told of the operation of an armored train on which a machine gun was mounted, which made four trips up Paint and Cabin creeks. He could not say who manned this train.

Attorney Belcher tried to ascertain what rifles were carried on a special train that invaded the Paint Creek section on the night of February 7, and from which a battle was fought. General Elliott did not know where the guns came from.

General Elliott said he had been informed that just prior to the first declaration of martial law bodies of armored miners were parading up and down Paint Creek. He had been informed that a watchman had been killed from ambush and another badly wounded. A party of guards who endeavored to recover the bodies of the slain men were fired upon by men from mills about the town.

It was immediately after the battle of Mucklow that the troops were sent into the Paint Rock field.

General Elliott said martial law was urged by strikers and united mine workers officials. Coal operators protested.

ASSASSINS KILL TURK GRAND VIZIER

Mahmoud Schefket and Aide de Camp Shot Down by Unknowns While Motoring in Constantinople.

Constantinople, June 11.—Mahmoud Schefket Pasha, the Turkish grand vizier and minister of war, was shot and killed by assassins today. His aide de camp, Lieutenant Ibrahim Bey, was also killed.

Prince Said Halim, foreign minister and ex-president of the council of state, has been appointed grand vizier ad interim. All the other ministers retain their portfolios.

The following official account of the assassination has been issued:

"On leaving the minister of war this morning, the grand vizier entered his motor car with the intention of proceeding to the sublime porte. But the car was obliged to stop while going through Bayezid square. As the square because the road was torn up. Some persons in another car, whose identity has not been established, fired ten shots at the grand vizier, who was severely wounded, was taken back to the ministry of war, where he died half an hour later.

"Lieut. Ibrahim Bey, who was accompanying Mahmour, Schefket Pasha, also was hit by some of the bullets and subsequently died.

A man named Topal Tewfik, has been arrested; he is suspected of being one of the assassins. He had in his possession two revolvers and some cartridges.

Captain Schref, who was riding with the grand vizier, describes the tragedy as follows:

"We were leaving Bayezid square, when our motor stopped on account of repairs. All of a sudden the road heard an explosion but attached no importance to it, thinking that a tire had burst. But Schefket Pasha fell forward. I took him in my arms to hold him up and saw the blood on his face.

"The reports continued and I jumped from the motor to seize the assassins, but they fled in their car, with the exception of Topal Tewfik, who had no time to get in. One of the assassins in the car fired at me repeatedly and I cannot understand why I was not hit."

The motor car used by the assassins was found this afternoon and the owner was arrested. He has already made certain admissions.

UNDER NEW WEBB LAW OFFICERS SEIZE BEER

Dalton, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—Two large shipments of beer were seized today by local officers, under authority of the Georgia Webb act.

Owing to the close proximity to territory less arid, Dalton constantly receives large shipments of wet goods, and, as a natural consequence, more or less disturbance has resulted in its disposition.

The goods are stored in a large vault at the courthouse. Another large shipment of several barrels of the dewy goods were scented by the officers, but they were spirited away before the proper steps could be taken.

WAYCROSS MAN SEEKS $325,000 FROM MEXICO

Waycross, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—Alex K. Seasoms, president of the Waycross and Western, and ranch owner in Mexico, left today for Washington to confer with Georgia representatives there regarding his claim against the Mexican government. The Seasoms interets in Mexico have suffered repeatedly from raids of both federals and revolutionists, and it is now estimated that no less than $325,000 damage has been done in the past two years.

On one of the frequent raids the rebels ruined all ranch houses, burning the places and stealing a large amount of provisions. The white people employed at the place were compelled to flee to the hills for safety.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN TO RECORD CLASS

Dr. Herbert Bigelow Makes Impressive Address at Tech Graduating Exercises at the Grand Opera House.

Commencement exercises at the Grand and a farewell luncheon concluded the celebration of Tech's twenty-fifth anniversary yesterday. Seventy-one graduates received diplomas at the most impressive graduation exercises ever witnessed in Atlanta, and an ovation was accorded every member of the class as he came forward for his sheepskin.

In striking contrast to the burlesque pageant of Tuesday was the procession from the University club, headed by President K. G. Matheson, the Tech faculty, commencement speakers and the dignified members of the senior class, all in cap and gown, accompanied by a student band, which played solemn music, adding still more dignity to the parade which passed down Peachtree street to the Grand.

Applause Greets Graduates.

Thunderous applause greeted the graduates as they filed into the theater, and an ovation was accorded them when they took their seats on the stage.

Following the invocation by Rev. Lyman Hood, president of the Atlanta Theological seminary, Dr. Herbert S. Bigelow, the orator of the day, discussed old institutions and new ideas.

Stressing the necessity of new ideas, Dr. Bigelow outlined the four states through which a great idea grows to the point of realization. First, it is ignored, then ridiculed, then opposed and finally recognized. "Opposition to a great idea begins when its practicability becomes manifest, but after the idea is recognized a lasting monument is reared in its honor."

Nat E. Harris, president of the Tech board of trustees, an one of the founders of the school, spoke of the strides Tech has made, increasing its enrollment from 130 to 825.

Significance of Caps and Gowns.

"Caps and gowns are not meaningless robes, but have a deep significance," said Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia. "They are evidence of a superior training, which you should honor. The man who wears such robes has a mission in the world."

The honor roll of over fifty names was announced by Professor T. P. Branch, following the presentation of diplomas to the graduates by Dr. K. G. Matheson.

Scholarship trophies were then awarded to members of the junior class by Governor Joseph Brown, and the prize-winning orations by Waldo M. Slaton, D. B. Wright, R. A. Shackelford, F. L. Shackleford, J. F. Woodruff, T. A. Gibson, C. S. Howell, E. Eberhart and R. A. Leinbach.

Among the medal winners were S. D. Frankel, for excellence in debat; H. L. Hardy, for declamatoan, and C. Boland, who won the Yellow Jacket cup, for the best contribution to the college paper.

Graduating Class.

A roster of the graduates follows:

A. C. Adair, A. S. Goebel, J. Phinizy, J. A. Roby, W. G. Miller, R. W. Reynolds, F. H. Lanham, J. T. L. Brown, E. K. Thomason, A. C. Matthews, J. F. Jamison, G. W. Laine, Jr., G. H. Northcutt, L. L. Brown, A. P. Hill, H. Luehmann, Theodore W. Davis, J. O. Clarke, M. M. Bryan, J. R. DuBose, A. L. Lobe, G. L. Maddox, J. H. Schroeder, J. H. Berry, G. R. Jewett, Jr., L. L. Stribling, L. Crumley, J. B. Law, G. F. Bunn, V. C. Brownson, J. C. Dennis, C. C. Ely, H. J. Hall, C. S. Hammond, T. H. Galphin, W. P. Hammond, J. C. Chalmers, J. K. Rockey, A. U. Avera, J. McC. Russell, H. S. McCrary, Jr., L. B. Evans, R. M. Harris, M. L. Rahner, W. C. Emerson, A. McK. Wynne, R. F. Sams, Jr., W. C. Holmes, M. S. Estes, S. A. Flemister, G. D. VanEpps, H. Clark, A. J. Phillips, J. C. Brooks (perisedt), G. M. Hope, Jr., R. L. Hughes, H. E. Carr, R. F. Monsavaiche, Homer Cook, J. W. Feldman, D. S. Ashley.

Program Opens Early.

The commencement day program opened bright and early Wednesday morning, when at 8:30 o'clock the campus was visited by scores of friends and relatives of the boys, who went through the college buildings and dormitories after an inspection of the shop work exhibit.

Here were demonstrated the results of the years' work at Tech, and though the shop exhibit is an annual affair, so careful is the program that every year there are new things of interest, and parents are given the opportunity to see at first hand the practical advantage of a Tech school education.

FULTON'S SCHOOLS CLOSED WEDNESDAY

The graduation exercises of the Fulton county public schools were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the office of the superintendent, E. C. Merry, in the Thrower building. These exercises marked the formal closing of the term, which ended June 5.

Nine graduates from the high school department received their diplomas, and over 100 certificates were presented to those who had finished the common school course.

Dr. R. D. Hoke, president of the county board, and Superintendent Merry delivered appropriate addresses. Following are the graduates from the high school department:

Carl Wilson, Goldey Hardy, Alma Wallace, Myers Head, Jail or Ben Hill; Myrtis Hamilton, Rounelle Broadnax and Henry Fulghum, of Hapeville; Hayden Plunkett and Tommie Sirman, of Rock Springs.

WILL AGAIN GO AFTER SOLICITORS GENERAL

Measure Abolishing the Office, Which Came Near Passing, to Be Renewed.

A measure that provoked one of the hardest fought legislative battles in the history of the last general assembly and that came within an ace of securing the necessary two-thirds majority for its passage will be introduced in the house again this year soon after the general assembly meets.

It is a constitutional amendment providing for the abolition of the office of solicitor general and the creation of the office of county prosecuting attorney in its stead. Last year, the measure was fathered by Representative Fulbright, of Burke, and Allen, of Upson. Representative Fullbright returns to the house this year and he has announced his intention to reintroduce the measure, and without doubt will make an energetic fight for its passage.

There has been considerable complaint in various parts of the state with regard to solicitor generals and particularly with their remuneration under the fee system. Mr. Fullbright will be one of the veteran members of the present general assembly, having already several consecutive terms to his credit, and, with his ability as a lawyer and legislator and his influence acquired by long service in the it interesting for solicitors this summer.

it interesting for solicitors the summer.

That there will be a hard fight on the subject goes without saying, as the solicitors have a lot of friends and political influence in the state, and there is much to be said on both sides of the question.

W. P. FAIN IS INDICTED BY JURY ON TWO COUNTS

The Fulton county grand jury announced Wednesday morning that Police Commissioner W. P. Fain had been indicted on two counts, one indicting him jointly with M. T. Cantrell, of the tailoring firm of Cantress & McHugh, charging them with running a disorderly house at Mr. Cantrell's home, 41 East Harris street.

The other indictment charged Mr. Fain with committing assault and battery upon a woman whose name the grand jury could not ascertain. He was placed under a $500 and $300 bond respectively, which was immediately made.

ORDER FOR FIRE HOSE IS SPLIT THREE WAYS AT REQUEST OF MAYOR

The board of firemasters set a precedent yesterday afternoon, when it voted almost unanimously to split the order for 2,000 feet of hose in three parts, purchasing three different brands from three different manufacturers.

The board recommended the purchase of 1,000 feet of Paragon brand from the Eureka Fire Hose company, at $1.10 per foot; 500 feet of Economy brand from the Manhattan Fire Hose company, at 90 cents, and 500 feet of White King brand from the Cotton States Belting company, at 80 cents.

The sentiment of the board was that the city purchase the best grade, but Mayor Woodward argued that in view of the fact that less costly brands were offered with the same guarantee as was given the higher grades, the city should make a trial. Chief W. B. Cummings agreed that it would be a good plan to give the various brands a trial.

The only opposition to the splitting of the order came from Councilman Sisson, of the fifth ward. He took a decided stand in favor of the Paragon brand at $1.10 per foot, explaining that he believed it to be the best policy for the city to purchase the best.

Mayor Woodward caustically criticised the attitude of Councilman Sisson. He said:

"It looks to me like throwing money away by buying hose at the highest price when the city can get just as good a guarantee on hose that costs from 20 to 40 cents less. The city has got to do a whole lot of economizing, and the sooner some councilmen learn that they are spending money belonging to the people, the better off the city of Atlanta will be."

E. L. Ficken, of Atlanta, a mechanic, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of the United States court. He there shows liabilities of $1,114.30, without any assets.

PLANS ARE NOW READY FOR PEACHTREE BRIDGE

The plans for the new steel and concrete bridge on Peachtree road crossing the Seaboard tracks, have been submitted to the county commissioners through the engineering department of the railroad at Norfolk, Va.

The bridge, according to plans, will be 100 feet in stead of 80, and will cost approximately $20,000. The span has been made wider in order to allow the railroad company to put another track on its right of way. The county commissioners have made individual examinations of the plans, and it is said that they will be approved at the meeting Saturday morning.

Local officials of the Seaboard say that the bridge will not only be substantial, but will be ornamental, and will be a vast improvement over the one now in use.

CAPITOL GOSSIP

Politicians in Town.

There was such a concourse of politicians at the capitol yesterday and about the lobby of the Kimball house that those places began almost to assume the air of a legislative session. Some of them were just passing through town, some had business before the supreme court, others were here to appear before the railroad commission, and still others were feeling the public pulse in regard to matters of legislation that will come up this summer. All seemed to take great interest in the race for the presidency of the state senate, and wherever a coterie gathered together it was generally found that they were working in the interest of one or the other of the rival candidates, or trying to forecast the result.

Gordon Lee Talks.

Prominent among the visitors to the capitol was Congressman Gordon Lee, of the seventh congressional district. Mr. Lee was returning from the meeting of the board of regents of Emory college, and left for his home near Chickamauga, last night, where he will remain for two days before returning to his congressional duties in Washington. While in the city Mr. Lee talked very interestingly about the current session of congress and the work he expected to see accomplished.

"I believe the house will take up currency legislation when they get together again," he said, "and the senate is through with the tariff bill. We will probably get to the tariff bill next week, a measure of that kind by about July 1. I believe that a currency bill will be passed at the extra session, but there will hardly be much else accomplished. I am looking for congress to adjourn in September and give the country a much better rest before the regular session starts in December."

Mr. Lee talked very sanguinely about business conditions and the success of the democratic party in being able to demonstrate its ability to administer the affairs of the country in a perfectly safe and satisfactory way.

"If weather conditions are favorable and we have a good crop year, there is no reason why this should not be the most prosperous year in the history of Georgia," he added.

Favors Short Term Bonds.

Joe Hill Hall, the veteran statesman from Bibb, was another capitol visitor yesterday, he having business with the railroad commission. Mr. Hall is strong in the conviction that the refunding bonds which the coming session of the legislature may provide for should be short term bonds, and that an additional sinking fund should be raised to pay them off. He believes that the state should get rid of all of its debt at as early a date as possible. Mr. Hall has prepared a refunding bill which has already been published in The Constitution, embodying his ideas, and which he expects to have introduced by one of the Bibb representatives this year.

Others in the City.

Other politicians who were shaking hands with their friends in the city yesterday were: Former Representatives Roland Ellis, of Bibb; Roy Stubbs, of Putnam; McIntyre, of Thomas, and Senator John W. L. Brown, of Bartow county.

All But One of Brown's Secretaries Will Also Serve Under Gov. Slaton

While no official announcement has yet been made of Governor-elect Slaton's official family, it is pretty well understood that all except one of the staff of Governor Brown will be retained when the new executive assumes office. Colonel Jesse Perry will continue as private secretary and Hardy Ulm as executive secretary. Miss Alma Norris, of Marietta, will also retain her present position as official stenographer. W. R. Power, of Marietta, now warrant and requisition clerk, will give way to Dr. I. S. Hopkins, of Atlanta, the well-known Methodist divine and former president of Emory college and the Technological school.

We once heard of a man who kept his mouth shut and lived to regret it—but we have never been able to secure the proof of the assertion.

DORSEY REQUESTS CONLEY'S RELEASE

Solicitor Wants the Witness Freed So Detectives Can Rearrest and Legally Hold Him at Station.

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey yesterday afternoon presented a petition to Judge L. S. Roan, of the superior court, asking that the previous court order holding the negro Conley as a material witness in the Phagan case against Leo M. Frank be revoked.

Judge Roan promptly refused to grant the petition, but instead issued a rule nisi, calling upon Leo M. Frank, Newt Lee, or any other citizen of Fulton county to show just cause why the court's order holding Conley should not be revoked. This will come up Friday morning in the superior court.

The reason that Solicitor Dorsey desired this order revoked was that Judge Roan had come to the conclusion that the only proper place to keep Conley as a material witness was in the Fulton county Tower, and not the police station, where he was removed two days after his first order holding Conley as a material witness went into effect.

Solicitor Dorsey Objects.

Solicitor Dorsey strenuously objects to Conley being carried back to the Tower. He, therefore, petitioned Judge Roan to revoke his former order holding him as a material witness.

Conley's attorney, W. M. Smith, also does not wish Conley returned to the Tower.

Had Solicitor Dorsey's petition been granted the court could not have been involved further in the case, and the local detective department could have held Conley on suspicion unless a writ of habeas corpus was taken out for or by him.

Should this order be revoked Friday morning Conley will be technically at liberty, but will be immediately rearrested by city detectives, and held on the charge of suspicion. If such takes place he will not legally figure in the Phagan case until taken to the courthouse as a witness against Frank.

Lively Scene Expected.

In all probability a lively scene will be enacted Friday morning in the superior court, as every citizen in the county has a right to show why Conley should be held as a material witness.

Solicitor Dorsey will be on hand to answer any one who should object to releasing Conley from the county authorities.

Solicitor Dorsey stated in court that he was entirely satisfied with the order holding Conley as a material witness, because he could get at him much, but did not desire him to remain in the Tower. As Judge Roan had decided that this was the proper place for the negro, therefore, Mr. Dorsey filed his petition.

Mr. Dorsey stated Wednesday afternoon that Conley had told him that he (Conley) did not want to be sent to the Tower because he had been intimidated by outsiders. Mr. Dorsey's whole reason for asking the order revoked is simply in order to have him in safe-keeping, where no others can reach him, or intimidate him. If the order is revoked, Mr. Dorsey assured the court that Conley would be promptly taken care of by the police.

W. M. Smith, attorney for Conley, stated that he wanted his client to remain in the police station, and not in the Tower, because of reported efforts on the part of certain visitors to the jail to torture and intimidate Conley, and because he wanted to safeguard his client against perjured admissions that Conley did not make."

Attorney Smith also stated to the court that no effort would be made to secure Conley's release from the police authorities, as presented written authority from the negro to make such a statement.

MISS ALEXANDER WINS COLUMBIA M. A. DEGREE

Dr. F. H Gaines, president of Agnes Scott college, is receiving congratulations on behalf of that college for the splendid record made by Miss Lucile Alexander, of Atlanta, a B. A. graduate, who has just received her M. A. degree from Columbia college (New York) after one year of study at that famous post-graduate institution.

In 1912 the specialist in higher education of the United States bureau of education made a tentative grouping of 134 colleges. The following principle was announced as the chief ground upon which the classification was made "Institutions whose graduates would ordinarily be able to take the master's degree at any of the large graduate schools in one year after receiving the bachelor's degree, without necessarily doing more than the amount of work regularly prescribed for such a degree." There were listed in the first group the names of fifty-nine colleges.

By securing her M. A. degree after one year of study at Columbia, Miss Alexander has clearly demonstrated the right of Agnes Scott college to a place in group one.

Miss Alexander is now at home in Atlanta, where she is being congratulated upon her accomplishment and for the splendid honor which she has helped to confer upon her alma mater.

Pretty Girls Take Part In Georgia Military Day; Will Receive Banners

Athens, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—Society will invade the drill grounds on old Herty field on Monday afternoon, which is military day of commencement at the University of Georgia. Social events have for years been prominent in the commencement week calendar and now society will take significant hand in Major Atkins' department.

At the prize drill Monday afternoon, the military event of the year in the cadet life of the institution, the battalion is to present to the University of Georgia two flags to take the place of the tattered and torn colors which have seen many campaigns here, around Gainesville in the mountain campaigns and Augusta in the river engagements.

Captain Zach Cowan is to make the presentation speech and the flags will be received for the university by two pretty girls. Miss Helen Baxter, "A Daughter of the Regiment," whose father is Colonel John E. Baxter, of the U. S. A., stationed at Omaha, Neb. will receive the flag of the union for the university; Miss Florence Hooper, daughter of Professor and Mrs. W. C. Hooper, will receive the university flag.

Miss Baxter, who is a Lucy Cobb girl, staying over for the Georgia commencement, will be attended by Miss Laura Cobb Hutchens, of Athens, as maid of honor, and Miss Hooper will be attended by Miss Mary Arthur as maid of honor. Leading the processional bearing the "Georgia" pennant will be Susan Frances Barrow, the pretty little daughter of Chancellor David Barrow.

A man not only will sing without much urging, but if no one volunteers to do it he will also play his own accompaniments.

THE DICTAGRAPH SCANDAL.

The stenographer is the heart, brain and conscience of the eavesdropping device known as the dictagraph. The conversations of the persons under espionage can not reach the outer world until they have passed through his mind and been transcribed by his fingers upon his note-book and from his note-book to the typewriter.

Now, the man who was the heart, brain and conscience of the dictagraph in the case being discussed throughout Atlanta makes affidavit that his original notes have been radically altered and "padded." He, virtually charges a "frame-up." The Constitution suspends judgment as to the veracity of his accusations. It does say that the man through whose intelligence the "pick-ups" of the dictagraph found their way to the outer world is best qualified to know whether or not his notes have been altered; and it does say that the implied indictment is so grave that the public safety and the security of reputation in Atlanta demand that it be probed to the bottom.

If the issue touched the private feud of individuals only it might be dismissed as a matter of news interest. But as the situation stands now, the integrity and the efficiency of Atlanta's detective department is under fire and the honesty and character of its officials are in the balance.

If there is a scintilla of truth in the charges brought by the operator of the dictagraph, a deplorable state of affairs is exhibited, and the reputation of no man can be considered safe. Fouche was the only man Napoleon feared, because the former could blast reputation by just such sinuous methods as have here been intimated.

If Atlanta is served by a detective force capable of such sinister devices, the city ought to know it. If the detective force is above suspicion, it should be exonerated in justice to itself and the community. There should forthwith be a searching investigation which shall shed light on this ugly affair.

Personal reputation lacks a sense of security as long as this shadow rests over the detective department!

A TIMELY INQUIRY.

West Virginia has as much to gain as the nation from the senatorial probe of industrial conditions in that state, just now getting under way. For several months the reports concerning the situation there have been many and conflicting. Some have held that the authorities had abrogated constitutional guarantees of safety and personal liberty and that organized tyranny prevailed. Others have declared that Governor Hatfield and his counsellors had adopted the only possible means to save the state from anarchy, hailing them as patriots.

Whatever the truth, it is justice to the state and the country that it be disclosed. Another consideration urges. The mine operators and their employees appear no nearer an agreement than since the beginning of the trouble. There seems no guarantee that disorder and paralysis of business may not continue indefinitely.

A condition of this hopeless complexity and menace is, of course, intolerable. The zealous advocates of "state rights" to the contrary notwithstanding, the senate has acted wisely in preparing to bring the whole matter out into the broad glare of publicity. The nation will be able to decide the merits of the case, once it is in possession of the evidence.

A GREAT WORLD-CITIZEN.

Civilization joins with Germany in celebrating the quarter centenary of the accession of Wilhelm II, who stands in the front rank of those whom today we designate by the distinction of world-citizens. It is popular to say that the president of the United States is the most powerful individual on earth. It is to be doubted if any recent president has approximated the achievements and the influence of German William, when we consider the time and space over which his personality has found expression.

By a curious paradox, the kaiser has won the title of being the world's greatest peace-maker. When he came to the throne twenty-five years ago, prophecies were plentiful that he was to set all nations by the ears and that his reign would be characterized by bloodshed. His abrupt dismissal of Bismarck was interpreted as corroboration of this theory. The fullness of time has shown the world that the rejection of the "man of blood and iron" was not mad or youthful arrogance, but the courageous assertion of independence and individuality by a nature rich in both of those qualities.

Since then William has organized and maintained the most formidable military establishment in the world. His navy is close upon the heels of Great Britain and keeps that nation anxiously busy to maintain its lead. These facts and the pugnacious expressions of the emperor early gained him the sobriquet of the "war lord of Europe." He seemed always on the point of eruption. His advisers have constantly been represented as with difficulty restraining his martial ardor. He has been accused of scheming and intriguing, all with some war-like end in view.

And, behold! Through the mist of the years he looms as the world's greatest peace-maker. From the start, he has been a practicer of that doctrine now being preached in our own country—that the surest way to insure peace is to be fully armed for war. Tardy diplomacy now makes revelations to the effect that the kaiser has been foremost in every delicate situation in Europe and foremost in the negotiations which finally brought peace. Roosevelt testifies that Wilhelm was of all men in the world the most effectual in aiding him to brink Japan and Russia together. Always seeming to be on the brink of hostilities, he has steered clear of them and, in the meantime, never lost an opportunity to legitimately aggrandize Germany.

These are mighty accomplishments, but only a part of the story. Wilhelm has developed his country in commerce, until now it overshadows civilization. He has encouraged the arts and literature. His many-sided personality has thrust vitality and progress into every phase of German life. William has undoubtedly shown himself as among the great kings of history, great in those practical achievements that far overshadow the pomp and tinsel traditionally associated with kings and kingcraft.

CROPS AND PRISONS.

In order to allow them to "make a summer crop," President Wilson has just commuted the fines of two Kentucky mountaineers. They were sentenced to sixty days' imprisonment and a $100 fine for illicit whisky selling. It was represented to the president that unless the two men were released by June 21 they could not make a crop. He reduced their sentences by remitting the imprisonment, providing the fine is paid.

Several values attach to the president's action and argue for it as a precedent in the proper cases. In the first place it is probable the purposes of the law will be served just as well by the fining as by the imprisonment of these men. In the second, their families will not have to suffer throughout a year, as they would if they were deprived of the source of their annual livelihood. In the third, while the government would get only sixty days' time from these two farmers, it would absorb the equivalent of a year's work, a principle that is essentially unfair. And in the fourth, it is likely the culprits are much less likely to repeat their offense than had their government held toward them a vindicative rather than a lenient attitude.

The president has shown a constructive grasp of the science of penology. It might not be applicable in all instances, but in those calling for it, it is a far improvement over the old methods.

Probably some of the tariff tollers would rather go a-fishing, but they're enlisted for the war.

"The Roosevelt Punch" has more vim in it than the Bryan grape juice compromise.

Some one will say that the fall of certain weather officials made the mercury take a drop too much.

The Growling Petitioners.

We prayed for cold in every spot
When the sun had the old world blazing-hot,
And a blizzard came to quench the flame,
But we kept on growling just the same.

Cold on high
And cold below,
And what in the world do we want with snow?

Then we prayed for heat for to melt the sleet,
And the hot sun blistered field and street;
And our answered prayers got all the blame—
Oh, we kept on growling just the same.

Hot on high
And hot below,
And we'd swap old Satan for a hill of snow!

The factory is well equipped and it is expected that a large amount of stuff will be put up this season.

100 Bushels Oats to Acre.

(From The Carroll Free Press.)

Mr. Bud Nixon, who lives on Route 6, today threshed from one acre 100 bushels of oats. This yield sustains Mr. Nixon's reputation as a fine farmer, and proves that Carroll county land is good for some crops besides cotton and corn.

'Twas ever thus. The greater a man is the more vindication he needs.

The life of the average June poem is not a day longer than the month itself.

Mexico doesn't want to get quiet enough to be rushed off the front page.

STORY OF FAITHFUL PHIL

Another Negro War Hero.

Editor Constitution: I have read with much interest the "Pathetic petition for aid by the negro sutlers of the confederate army." in The Constitution.

There has been much said and written in these latter days about the negro problem, much that might be left unsaid, as it is one which time alone can solve. During all this speculation, it is refreshing to remind these would-be prophets of the fidelity of the ante-bellum negro, who was so often a prominent figure in our southland.

I remember attending the funeral of the first soldier whose remains were brought home to Columbus, Ga., during the war—the gallant James Ware, a member of the Columbus Light guards. When this young man was making preparations to join the army, his mother called the servant to whom she could commit this trust, and said, "Phil, your Marse James is going to the war. He will leave this week, and I want you to promise me that you will stay near him, look after him and if he falls in battle bring his body back to me." To which Phil replied, "Missus, I do promise with all my heart. I sho will."

Several battles were fought and Phil heard him answer to the roll call after all was over—until the roll call after the fierce battle of the Seven Pines. There was no response to the name of James Ware. The time had come for Phil to redeem his promise. He set out for the battlefield, covered as it was with the dead, half dead and suffering hundreds who were in gunshot distance of the enemy. Phil was not to be frightened away or thwarted from his purpose. After turning over many dead bodies he recognized the face of his young master, and raising him tenderly in his arms bore him to the rear. Placing him on a mule he carried the boy to an ambulance, and thence to Richmond, where he secured a casket and started for his Georgia home as soon as the railroad could carry them.

At the funeral in Columbus, among all the mourners who crowded the large church, there was none more sincere than "Faithful Phil," who sat in a front seat near the casket of his young master whom he had brought from the battlefield.

The above incident was one of the stories contained in a book which I wrote during the war, "Hospital Scenes and Incidents of the War," but which was destroyed in the publishing house in Columbia, S. C., during Sherman's march to the sea.

GIVE US LESS CRITICISM.

A Defense of Georgia Farmers.

Editor Constitution: In a recent issue of The Constitution I find an interesting article by Mr. M. C. Edwards, of Dawson, Ga., showing how in 1911 there were only four states whose agricultural products equaled in value those of Georgia, and that with all the adverse conditions of 1912 Georgia made a fine record.

The United States census of 1910, which reports the crop of 1909, gives the value of all Georgia's crops at $226,555,436, which amount was surpassed by only seven states that excelled Georgia in 1911, viz.: Ohio, Illinois, Iowa and Texas. Thus our farm products in 1909 and 1911, although the seasons were against us, surpassed in value some of the best agricultural states of the union, California being among them.

It is all very well to urge upon our farmers greater diversity of crops. But let those, who wisely advocate this policy, abstain from unwise and unjust criticisms about Georgia farmers and their methods, and carefully avoid stat-ments calculated to convey a wrong impression of Georgia and her people.

GOOD WORDS ABOUT BIG WOMAN'S EDITION

Interesting and Entertaining.

(From The Douglas Enterprise.)

The woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution contained 126 pages in ten sections, one of the largest issues of a Georgia paper in some time. It was edited and reported in every way by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and speaks volumes for these great workers. Next week, we propose to reproduce most of the Douglas matter in this issue, which will be interesting and entertaining.

A Big Success.

(From The Carnesville Advance.)

The Woman's Federation edition of The Atlanta Constitution proved to be a decided success. It was just as we predicted—one of the best issues ever published in the state and was a neat, clean paper throughout.

A Great Achievement.

(From The Dawson News.)

The Club Woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution was a great achievement. The subject matter embraces every branch of industry, office, club work, society, sports, development, music and art, and the illustrations are in keeping with the other features. The News congratulates both the club women and The Constitution on their splendid paper.

The Woman's Edition.

(From The Tifton Gazette.)

The Club Woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution, issued Wednesday, was a magnificent achievement, in every way worthy of the progressive club women of Georgia, and a credit to the superb equipment of the newspaper plant which made its issue possible.

A Splendid Achievement.

(From The Athens Daily Herald.)

The Atlanta Constitution's Woman's edition for the Ella P. White Memorial fund was a splendid achievement. In the matter of size it was a record-breaker, being the largest newspaper ever issued in Georgia, 126 pages. It was perhaps the greatest task ever undertaken by the club women of this state and general and enthusiastic praise is being showered upon them for the successful achievement.

As is usual with The Constitution, the edition is most attractively gotten up, being filled with excellent half-tone engravings or views, buildings and prominent club women. It makes a souvenir of value and will doubtless be preserved by many people in every section of the state.

The World's Mysteries

DID HOMER WRITE THE "ILIAD" AND "ODYSSEY?"

Was Homer a blind poet of genius ranking with the greatest singers, or do the Homeric poems, as they have come down to us, represent the work of many poets whose writings were moulded into the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" by some ancient editor? That Homer was an historical person there has never been any doubt. Seven cities of ancient Greece, through which, according to tradition, the living Homer begged his bread, claimed the honor of his birth when he was dead. But that controversy was mild as compared with that of twenty-five centuries later, when the most erudite scholars of the world took sides in debating the problem of the Homeric poems.

The ancient Greeks never doubted the historical existence of Homer. Although he was "the poet" to them in a special sense, yet they knew nothing of him as a person. There are eight Greek biographies of him extant, but none of them have any historical value, one having been written by Plutarch and another falsely ascribed to Herodotus.

A large number of manifestly fictitious genealogical trees is presented in these histories of Homer. The well-known Greek epigram—

"Seven cities vied for Homer's birth with emulation pious:
Salamis, Samos, Colophon, Rhodes, Argos, Athens, Chios"

emphasizes the uncertainty with regard to his birthplace. Several writers declared that he was born at Smyrna, and near that city a grotto was shown in which they said he composed his poems. Simonides called him a Chian, doubtless partly on the strength of the verse in the hymn to Delian Apollo, a verse which at least supported the popular belief in the poet's blindness.

It was reserved for an English scholar to believe that Homer's name, read backward in Hebrew style, was only another form of the name Solomon, and that, therefore, the Homeric poems were to be ascribed to the Hebrew king.

Homer was generally assumed to have lived a century or a century and a half after the Trojan war (B. C. 1183), but others made the period as late as 850 B. C. But scholars no longer ask where Homer was born or when he lived, but in what regions and tribes of Greece epic poetry was perfected, and in what centuries the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" received their present form. Not that all would deny that any poet Homer ever lived, but for the reason that all authentic information regarding him has perished beyond recovery. Even in his poems his personality is kept entirely in the background.

Certain critics taking the meaning of the name Homer to be "united" presented the argument that the name did not apply to an individual, but was rather used to designate the members of a guild of poets.

Until the nineteenth century most scholars thought of the composition of the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" as analogous to that of the "Paradise Lost"—written by a single poet on a definite plan. In 1795 Frederick August Wolf, of Halle, published a famous volume of prolegomena to Homer, in which he maintained that the art of writing was unknown to the Greek, of Homer's time; that such long poems could not and would not have been composed without the aid of writing; that the different lays constituting them were not put together until the sixth century before Christ, and that the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" are not by the same author. Wolf's arguments are not all convincing, but his work gave the first strong impetus to what is called the "higher criticism" of ancient literature.

In 1837 Lachmann, of Berlin, brought forward arguments from internal evidence against the essential unity of the poems, urging that inconsistencies proved a difference of authorship. Some parts of the poems are evidently suggestive by other parts, so that now scholars are pretty well agreed that some "books" and passages are of comparatively late origin, while in the ultimate analysis men are still widely divided.

Recent discoveries have somewhat discredited the theories of the scholars mentioned, for we know now that Greek society in the time assigned to Homer was by no means primitive, but an advanced civilization, especially suited, with its wealthy and luxurious courts, to foster poets to sing of glorious deeds; also that writing is far older in Greece than Wolf supposed. The controversy is still continued among scholars as to whether Homer is responsible for the fine poetry credited to him, and it is not likely that future discoveries will be able to settle the question.

ON GETTING RICH.

BY GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Getting rich is the great American game. The season lasts twelve months each year, Sundays included, and the players include practically all the citizens able to distinguish the salient points of difference between a dollar and a stick of candy.

The getting rich game is played on all kinds of fields. Some men play it for sixty years on a flat top desk, while others use a 10,000 acre farm, and still others a small green baize covered table. There are no standard implements for playing the game, either. Some men use a stock ticket, some a twine binder and some the small but eloquent pocket instrument of conversation, which can make eight speeches with one loading. Some men play the game by betting a thousand dollars on a horse race in the hope of accumulating another thousand. Others prefer to save up $25,000 and invest it all in a rubber company in the hopes of getting spinal trouble while trying to lug home the dividends. In both cases the principle is the same, but in the former the end comes more speedily and is comparatively painless.

Getting rich is a sort of catch-as-catch-can game. There are no rules to speak of. Generally speaking, in polite circles it is not proper to club a man while taking his money away from him. But this is only because more convenient methods have been perfected. The course hold-up man, who bears his victim with a gas pipe while subduing him, is looked upon with great scorn by the soft spoken captain of skindustry who sells the same victim a little preferred stock and then runs the price down until said victim parting asks him as a personal favor to take it back for nothing.

Getting rich is a peculiar game, because everybody loses and nobody wins. Some men lose health and others reputation. Some lose a happy and carefree youth, while others lose their patriotism. Some mislay their wives and families in their mad enthusiasm, while practically all players lose their ability to distinguish between the right and a good lawyer who will obey orders and no questions asked.

Nobody wins in this game because nobody really gets rich. As soon as a man has gotten $10,000 and can afford to wear two clean collars a week, he discovers that $50,000 is the winning mark. When he makes $50,000 he learns how to become a millionaire. When he gets his million he is so embarrassed in the company of the real plutocrat that he blushes whenever he thinks of his pile. And just as he has accumulated $100,000,000 and has perfected plans for taking over the earth in a limited liability company, Death scythes him down and his bright prospects are everlastingly blighted.

Getting rich is a more fatal game than pugilism, dueling, or playing with matches in a powder mill, but nobody objects to it. Some of us would if we were not too busy—getting rich.

MOMENTUM.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Momentum is Accumulated Force in action. Accumulate Momentum and in its possession at some critical moment in your life you will rise to a glorious Foresight and Acumen.

You can never accumulate Momentum by standing still.

If you fail to take hold upon every possible chance that is offered you you fail in that measure to gather up and put into accumulated Experience which goes to make up Momentum.

You can never accumulate Momentum by standing still.

Momentum is power saved up for Tomorrow. But if you waste the Opportunities of Today your Momentum is bound to slip away. For Momentum must be fed with continuous Action and Deeds in order that you may benefit from its force.

You can never accumulate Momentum by standing still.

There is nothing more pitiful than to see men and women of brilliant Mind or Abilities reaching Middle Life inactive and with no Achievements to speak about their names. The time to pile up Momentum is during the early years of life and during the early hours of every Day. But no matter in what position you find yourself you can begin at any moment to accumulate Momentum and make it one of the most useful factors in your whole career.

At the Game.

(From The Cleveland Leader.)

Dr. Sargent, the authority upon athletics at Harvard college, deplores the fact that many men would rather witness a ball game than play it themselves.

But really, is there anything to deplore? If Dr. Sargent will take the trouble to look over the crowd at any league ball game he will find that it is composed almost exclusively of men who spend their working hours shut up in offices and stores, whose bodies, while healthy, are not toughened enough to stand the strain of playing ball, and who have not the time or opportunity to harden themselves for baseball. Many of them have reached the age when the playing of baseball entails the danger of bursting a hardened artery.

Dr. Sargent should remember that the baseball fan doesn't watch a game in the same manner that he watches a show. He jumps up and down, swings his arms and yells, while the blood courses through his veins at schoolboy speed. No matter how old he is, he is a gallery god in the open, with all his privileges and a little more, if the umpire doesn't do the right thing.

Kentucky Streets of Pearl.

(From The Dover News.)

The town is having Lucretia street, west from Market, ballasted with mussel shells from the pearl button factory. These shells so far as tried make a good macadam for streets, and they give a fine appearance to the street—white and clean after a rain. Dover now has not "streets of gold and gates of pearl," but streets of pearl and gates wide open.

An Expert Opinion.

DEFEND EMPIRE HOTEL AS CLEAN AND LAWFUL

Marion Jackson, J. L. Edmondson and Frank Reynolds Issue Statements.

Marion M. Jackson makes the following statement:

June 10, 1913.

Editor The Constitution:

Attacks upon myself personally are immaterial. They were expected. Others will be made. But protected vice cannot revive itself in Atlanta by slandering me or any other individual. I am not only one of a committee, which committee represents 90 per cent of, if not all of, the protestant churches of Atlanta.

Therefore, if the attacks injured only me, I should ignore them.

But when these attacks hit and hurt not me but innocent third parties, as is known to those who make the attacks, the public should be informed.

John Edmondson is known in Atlanta and throughout the state of Georgia. He needs no defense from me, as his friends and acquaintances know that he would not operate a questionable house. The Hotel Empire, in the Jackson building, was leased to him a year or more ago for a period of five years.

Whether or not Mr. Edmondson makes money from his lease he has to pay the rent, for the simple reason that he is financially responsible. Independent of his connection with this hotel. Therefore, on strictly business principles temporarily, it is immaterial to the owners of the building whether or not he makes money from the hotel.

At present he is losing money through no fault of his, but through attacks of members of the underworld and its defenders made upon me personally. The continued slanders deter decent people from going to the hotel. The other kind do not frequent it for two reasons.

First, Edmondson will not tolerate it.

The second is that I have requested the chief of police if anything is wrong in the Jackson building to "pull it" before any other place.

At the request of the campaign against protected vice I made this request of Chief Beavers in the presence of several newspaper men. I repeat the request today.

Furthermore, I have asked individuals and I now ask them and all others, regardless of their motives, to have the Hotel Empire pulled if there is anything wrong with it. I will gladly pay the fee of any lawyer who will convict any bellboy, clerk or proprietor in the place of sanctioning any immorality. And I shall consider the showing up of the place not as an attack upon me, but as a personal favor.

What is more, Mr. Edmondson will consider it as a favor.

The Jackson building is owned by five persons, the heirs of my father's estate. These also will thank the individual that puts an end to anything wrong upon their property.

And in future the public will appraise at their proper value the man who, in reporting the discredit a work of the churches of Atlanta, make attacks upon me which do not hurt me but injure others who have done them no harm.

I have only pity for the blindness of these men and their tools.

Since these attacks have reached the public through your columns I would appreciate your giving the same publicity to this letter.

Respectfully, MARION M. JACKSON.

Mr. Edmondson's Statement.

John L. Edmondson, of the Empire hotel, likewise issues a statement in which he says:

If Mr. Hutcheson can establish that one of my clerks has ever greeted a guest who was about to register with the language, "With or without?" I will give him $1,000, and if he cannot establish this, if there is any smell to it, he will at once make a public apology, withdrawing this language or any reflection since my management of the Empire hotel.

For the benefit of the public I wish to state that I am conducting the Empire hotel in a first-class manner and catering to the best trade, and that no vice of any character is permitted in that hotel with my knowledge, and if the same was going on I believe I would know of it.

It is unfair to me to be drawn into the unfortunate controversy that is now being conducted through the public press, and my hotel be made to suffer on account of the infamous charges about its management, simply because Mr. Marion Jackson happens to be one of the heirs at the owning the hotel.

J. L. EDMONDSON.

Reynolds' Statement.

Frank T. Reynolds, manager of the Empire, likewise makes a statement, saying:

I received positive instructions from John Edmondson not to allow vice of any kind to exist in the hotel, and enforced these instructions to the letter, and so long as I was general manager of the Empire hotel I feel sure that no hotel in Atlanta or in the country was more cleanly conducted or freer from vice.

There is not a word of truth in the charges made by Carl Hutcheson in last Sunday's American, or his allusions referring to the Empire hotel as it has been owned by Marion Jackson alone and during my management of said hotel, and such a publication as he made concerning said hotel is a vile and infamous slander.

FRANK T. REYNOLDS

Hutcheson Replies.

The above having been published yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hutcheson replies:

"Atlanta, Ga., June 11, 1913.—I have read the replies of Marion Jackson, John L. Edmondson and Frank Reynolds to the charges hotel density that immoral practices have taken place in this hostelry.

If these gentlemen will call at my office, 238 Equitable building, I will show them copies of an affidavit to establish my charge. And I will tell them some other things. I also authorize them to call upon Mr. Lewis Beck, foreman of the grand jury, or to whomever he has affirmed this affidavit, and there will see for themselves that I am not the informant. I placed with the grand jury the original affidavit.

"Also I wish to state to the public that I wished to have a conference with Mr. Jackson, but he refused after he had made my charges on May 27 in the press. I am advised that he would not dignify my charges. I think that my word is as good as Mr. Jackson's, or that of Mr. Edmondson.

"I ask the public, not partisans, and men who are not blindfolded to truth, not men who, like Mr. Jackson, drive to and from their office in automobiles, and who generally go direct home, I ask you, the public, to judge between us. Respectfully submitted.

CARL HUTCHESON."

JOINT MEETING TODAY OF GEORGIA TRUSTEES

Boards of Trustees of University and of State Agricultural College Meet in Athens.

Athens, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—Athens will be full of trustees tomorrow when the board of the university and the board of the State College of Agriculture hold a double-header meeting. These annual meetings of trustees and visiting boards and others frequently have significance far-reaching in many lines of progress in the state.

Former Governor McDaniel is the president of the board. He was the member from the fifth congressional district and Clarke Howell was the member from the state at large. In redistricting the state the president was cut off into the eighth district, which already had a representative on the board. By appointments the places of these two trustees was exchanged and the present incumbent of the board is from the state at large and the Atlanta member is from the fifth district.

Hon. J. J. Connor, commissioner of agriculture of the state, is president of the State College of Agriculture board.

T. W. Reed, registrar of the university, is secretary to both boards and Dr. A. M. Soule is assistant secretary in the last named body.

ASK PROBE OF STATE MUTUAL AGENCY IN SELLING OF STOCK

Athens, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—A meeting representing nearly 2,000 shares in the State Mutual agency, a corporation organized here by N. P. Pollitt two years ago, was held today and a committee was named to investigate the affairs of the company and report to another meeting to be called soon at which time it is more than likely that a grand jury investigation will be urged into the manner of the selling of stock in the agency to Clarke, Oconee and Oglethorpe county people.

Pollitt moved his company from Athens to Savannah, and it is stated that he is now in the west, having left the business here. He organized an agency to handle the business of various companies secure business, make collections and the dividends were to be made out of the commissions secured.

A contract with a Rome, Ga., life insurance company was the principal asset of the company, which was put in by Pollitt, it is said, and the capital stock increased from $100,000 to $250,000. Stock was sold left and right to scores of persons in this section, merchants, farmers, insurance men and women.

The agent of the company at Savannah will be communicated with and urged to furnish full data of the condition of the agency, and to be at a future meeting.

Rome Full of Sleuths; Badge and Credentials Cost Them Only 60 Cents

Rome, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—T. C. Eubanks, a white man, is being held in the city prison on charges of course detective school and turning out youthful sleuths upon payment of 60 cents. He is charged with representing a national concern, collecting fees from ambitious Sherlocks and giving each initiate a bright badge and a credentials card.

The case was originated by the admission into the chautauqua tent of several boys, who showed their badges to the doorkeeper. The number of detectives passing the turnstile aroused the suspicion of the chautauqua people and they reported the matter to the authorities, who made the case against Eubanks. The police believe that at least 100 youths are parading the streets thinking they have been clothed with power to arrest.

"MERE MAN" IS TAUGHT HOW TO HANDLE BROOM

Chicago, June 11.—There are twenty-nine ways of handling a broom, but only one correct way, and this will be taught in a school for the men who sweep Chicago's streets, according to a plan recommended yesterday by the technical board of the bureau of streets. The experts state that the greatest efficiency in the "white wings" can be obtained only by such an institution in which he will be taught the most practical way of utilising tools and machines and the theory of scientific street cleaning.

TROOPS TO GIVE BATTLE TO THE SULTAN OF JOLO

Manila, June 11.—Brigadier General John Pershing, commander of the department of Mindanao, has made arrangements to engage in a decisive fight against the rebellious Moros entrenched at Bagsag, under the Sultan of Jolo.

A stubborn resistance to the advance of the American troops was expected and a strong force had therefore been assembled, consisting of a company of regular infantry, a troop of cavalry, seven companies of scouts, two companies of constabulary with a battery of four mountain guns and a machine gun platoon.

Dredging at Panama.

Panama, June 11.—The record of the monthly dredging operations in the canal was broken in May, when over 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth were removed from the two entrances.

COLD WEATHER BANS OUTDOOR GRADUATION

Athens, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—Graduating exercises at the Athens High school last night, planned for out-of-doors were held inside the house with a good fire to keep the rooms warm. Twenty-two girls and boys were graduated. The girls made with their own hands as a part of their work in the domestic science department of the school, every article of clothing they wore that can be made with needle and thread.

One of the boys, Monteith Flanigen, made an electric light sign in a large electric arch, with the class letters and numerals in flash effect, the sign said to be equal in appearance and effectiveness to an ordinary $50 affair for a commercial firm.

TARIFF INJURES COMMERCE, SAYS DOBBS BEFORE AD MEN

Baltimore, Md., June 11.—(Special.)—One of the most insidious influences in the world's commerce is the system of tariffs as practiced by many of the larger nations, declared S. C. Dobbs, the well-known Atlanta business man, in his address before the Ad Men's convention in Baltimore Wednesday afternoon.

Taking as his subject, "Commerce Both a Fruit and a Force of Civilization," Mr. Dobbs, of the publicity department of the Coco-Cola company, discussed the many phases of present-day commerce, calling attention to the vast commercial progress made by the world. He was bitter in his attack on the tariffs, declaring them greedy and debasing schemes for turning commerce into selfish gain alone.

"The human mind is paralyzed in its productive powers when it seeks, like Midas, to 'turn all its touches into gold;' it becomes mean and sterile," said Mr. Dobbs. Miserliness is uncommercial as well as unchristian in both its spirit and its methods. It contracts the area of commercial prosperity and reduces the effectiveness of all civilizing forces

Tariff Stunts Commerce.

"This view is abundantly justified and clearly exemplified by these greedy schemes of exclusive and prohibitory tariffs, which many nations have adopted at one time or another in their history. These tariffs have resulted in setting men to pursue unprofitable industries in lands not naturally adapted to such industries, while they have starved laborers in other lands that were adapted to such industries but whose markets were closed by the locks and bars of these systems of commercial exclusiveness.

"These tariffs have generated excessive wealth in the hands of a few while impoverishing want upon the heads of unnumbered multitudes. They have restrained the offices of brotherly kindness and have obstructed the currents of mutual helpfulness between nations.

"They have fostered corruption in government and unrest among all classes; they have arrested the progress of mankind and stayed the advance of civilization. They are condemned by the consideration of commercial wisdom and Christian cosmopolitanism. Happily, their folly is being discovered and they are passing away.

Commerce a Fruit and a Force.

"Commerce is both a fruit and a force of civilization; both a cause and an effect. Of the power of commerce in modern times there can be no sort of doubt, and in no previous period of the world's history was trade ever so extensive, or so profitable.

"And yet, modern commerce has not passed beyond its infancy. There are greater things yet to be than any which have gone before. And all this will mean good and not evil for mankind. Contrary to Christianity itself, commerce, more than all other forces, promotes brotherliness among people and advances peace in the earth.

"Our commercial age, after all that is said in depreciation of it, is the greatest age which man has known since the gates of paradise were shut against him. It is, therefore, emphatically fitting and proper that we, the representatives of the most aggressive force in this vast exchange of commercial commodities, foregathered here from every section of the globe, should devote our time and best efforts towards creating and fostering higher ideals in commercial life, educating the advertising man up to the full realization of his opportunities as well as his responsibilities.

"Every nation of the world with which we have commercial intercourse is affected either for good or evil precisely in proportion as our transactions are clean, honest and honorable. Civilization follows the banner of commerce over the highways and along the waterways of the globe and brings all nations into that close relation and intimate kinship by which the special knowledge and the best of each become the property of all.

Will Help Universal Peace.

"A world-wide commerce stands today as the most effective bulwark against strife between nations.

"Many of our great thinkers predict that we are gradually nearing the era of a universal peace amongst all nations. When world-wide peace shall come, as it undoubtedly will, it will be brought about not through the might of our navies, the strength of our fortifications, or the efficiency of our armies, but through the civilizing ministration of a world-wide commerce.

"The commerce of any nation is an infallible index of its civilization. Perhaps the two most Christian and civilized nations in the world are Great Britain and the United States, and they do most of the commercial work which is done by mankind. The Anglo-Saxon nations, which are the great commercial powers of modern times, control one-fourth of the land surface of the earth, exercise authority over one-third of the world's population, own one-half of the wealth of the globe, including the richest mines of gold, iron and coal; occupy all the strategic points on the planet; command the highways of the sea and the railways of the land; own most of the cable and telegraph lines, and transmit the world's news; lead the humane movements of the present era for the improvement of Christendom and conduct the missionary enterprises for the conversion of heathendom.

"If the commerce of these great nations were blighted, a hungry world would be threatened with physical starvation and menaced with the loss of intellectual and moral food.

"It behooves these nations to remember the sources of their strength and to live worthy of their high vocation. Their commerce must never be allowed to degenerate into savage greed and barbarous selfishness. Their prosperity is not a matter by which appetite is to be gratified and pride indulged; but it is the means by which their obligations to mankind must be discharged and their high mission fulfilled."

O. R. T. Convention.

Waycross, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—All arrangements for the meeting of the Order of Railway Telegraphers in Waycross next Saturday have been completed. Over 100 delegates will attend. The banquet which will be the feature of the gathering will be one of the most elaborate ever served in Waycross. Local officials of the Atlantic Coast Line will be among the guests of honor.

TEST VALUE OF FREE AND CONVICT LABOR

Waycross, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—The question of the relative cheapness of hired labor and convict labor is one that the county commissioners of Ware county propose to investigate, and it is probable that in order to make a sure test of the matter two gangs of laborers will be put to work on the county roads.

One of these will be composed of convicts, who will work under their usual conditions, and the other will be made up of hired laborers. Careful supervision will be given to their work in regard to its result, amount and cost.

$1,000 FINE PAID FOR VIOLATION OF PROHIBITION LAW

Macon, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—W. C. Groves, of Miami, Fla., was this afternoon fined $1,000 for violating the state prohibition law, and five minutes after the sentence was passed the money was in the hands of the clerk.

The case against Groves was an old one, and the charge was that he had whisky in his possession for illegal purposes. The alleged violation of the law occurred while a former case against Groves was pending before the court of appeals. His conviction in that case caused Groves to promise Governor Joseph E. Brown that he would never have anything to do with the sale of whisky in Macon if the governor would commute his sentence from a jail term to a fine. This was done, and Groves paid a $1,000 fine.

Judge Hodges told him in court today that he was glad he had kept his promise with the governor. Groves left Macon on a train in Miami, disposing of all his property here, worth probably $150,000, and has since lived in the Florida city.

New York, April 26, 1913.—"The skin of my hand got red and then it had. It itched and I began to scratch it. It itched so that sometimes I could not sleep at night. . . Mark Twain's Advertising Story.

One of our contemporaries tells a Mark Twain story about advertising that is old enough to be new again, and which is worth repeating.

Once upon a time Twain was the editor of a paper in Virginia City, and a subscriber who found a spider in his copy of the paper wrote asking whether this was good or bad luck.

Twain answered through his paper as follows:

"Old Subscriber—The finding of a spider in your copy of The Enterprise was neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our pages to find out what merchant was not advertising, so that it could spin its web across his door and lead a free and undisturbed existence ever after."

Twain's answer possesses both humor and exaggeration, but a large element of truth and common sense, too.

Let there be a little hint in this story for you, Mr. Merchant, if you are a non-advertiser, or if you advertise only at rare intervals.

No spider ever spins his web across the door of a busy advertiser.

SOCIETY

Miss Louise Ripley Weds Mr. D. I. MacIntyre, Jr.

A beautiful wedding last night which centered a cordial social interest was that of Miss Louise Ripley and Mr Daniel Irwin MacIntyre, Jr., which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Ripley, on W. Peachtree street.

Beautiful decoration and music and the participation of a large number of attendants were picturesque incidents of the occasion, and a large company of friends were present for the ceremony and reception.

Miss Laura Ripley was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Homer MacAfee, matron of honor. Misses Frances Ansley, Sina White and Julie MacIntyre were bridesmaids; Mr. Remer MacIntyre, of Thomasville, was best man; Messrs. Marion Swanson, E. V. Carter, Jr., and Cherry Emerson, groomsmen; Misses Elizabeth Owens, and Margaret MacIntyre, ribbon bearers, and Miss Frances Peabody, train-bearer. Rev. W. E. Hill, of the West End Presbyterian church, was the minister officiating.

The ceremony was performed in the living room, which was made a bower of foliage and flowers. In the background was a pyramid of palms with curtains of bamboo draped from the windows above to meet the palms. Bamboo framed the doors and windows, palms were banked in the corners, and Easter lilies and white sweet peas were massed on the mantel.

The bride entering the room with her father was a fair picture, her beauty enhanced by the becoming tulle veil and airish gown of white charmeuse, draped with chiffon, and princess lace. Her bouquet was of bride's roses and valley lillies.

The maid of honor wore pink charmeuse draped with chiffon, her bouquet of pink roses, and the matron of honor wore white satin with overdress of lace. The bridesmaids wore pink chiffon.

Mrs. Ripley was gowned in black satin charmeuse and lace, and she was assisted in receiving by Mrs. D. MacIntyre and Mrs. John Scott, the groom's mother and sister.

An orchestra provided the wedding music, and a buffet supper was served. The punch bowl in the dining room was imbedded in smilax and sweet peas, and artistic decoration throughout the house was of palms and variegated foliage plants, with a profusion of sweet peas in all their pastel colors.

Mr. and Mrs. MacIntyre left after the reception for a wedding trip, and returning, they will take an apartment in the Corinthian.

Both represent well-known Georgia families, and the bride, who finished school a year ago, is one of the most charming and popular members of the younger set. The groom, a graduate of Georgia Tech, is successfully engaged in the insurance business.

Miss Mai Perkins was Miss Dana's maid of honor, and the other bridesmaids were Misses Elise Cubbedge and Josephine Saul and Miss Sara Taylor, of Macon. Valmore W. Lebey was groomsman, and the ushers were Frank Dana, W. H. Robertson, Carville Carson, B. T. Waller, Jr., Thomas H. McMillan, Jr., and Gustave Robertson.

Athens, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—A marriage of interest to Athenians and friends throughout the state was a social event this morning at 7 o'clock, when Miss Irene Nickerson and Mr. Gordon Hight, of Rome, were wedded at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Nickerson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Troy Beatty.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, but entered the drawing room with Miss Adelle Wright, of Rome.

The groom was attended by Mr. Louis Wright, of Rome.

Mr. and Mrs. Hight left immediately after the ceremony in their touring car for their wedding trip.

Mrs. Hight presented Misses Aurelia O'Farrell, Susie Davison, Alice Keen Briggs and Addie Wright with her photo framed in silver with monogram and date of wedding—a group of girls that were to have been her attendants, had not the wedding plans been changed.

Curryville, Ga.—"My mother had a breaking out on her right leg between the knee and ankle which was pronounced eczema. Her clothing irritated it and her feet and ankles were swollen so she could not wear her shoes and could not walk for sometime.

"She tried several home remedies which did her no good. As a last resort she tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. She washed the places with the Cuticura Soap and afterwards applied the Cuticura Ointment. One cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment cured her." (Signed) Mrs. D. Musical Comedy Tabloid.

(At the Bijou.)

That the new form of entertainment now being offered at the Bijou is meeting with popular favor, is best demonstrated by the immense audiences that are patronizing the popular theater these days, where some really splendid musical shows are being offered at bargain prices. This week's attraction, "Hiram At the Gabaret," is one of the best of the musical tabloids that has visited Atlanta so far. It is full of live, good comedy, tuneful musical numbers, and all the other features that have made this form of entertainment so popular.

SUBURBS CANNOT FORM SMALL NATIONAL BANKS

Washington, June 11.—Suburbs of big cities in future will be unable to organize small national banks with capital of $25,000 or $50,000. Attorney General McReynolds has rendered an opinion to treasury department holding that it is not lawful under the national bank act to consider suburbs as separate places from the cities within whose corporate boundaries they lie, and that if a city has a population of more than 50,000 people the minimum capital for its national banks, whether in the city proper or in the suburbs, must be $200,000.

This will result in a complete reversal of the policy of the government, and it is stated will likely cause suburban towns of big cities to organize only state banks.

In accord with the eternal fitness of things, a man with narrow shoulders ought to wear a broadcloth coat.

Suicide Leaves Sealed Letters to Sweetheart And Local Undertaker

Calhoun, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—Leaving sealed letters to his sweetheart and the local undertaker, Charlie Gunn, aged 25, formerly of Dalton, but whose parents now live at Gainesville, Fla., ended his life today by taking carbolic acid.

He had been seen by a number of friends shortly before the act, and was apparently in the best spirits. In an open letter to his friends which was also found by his bed in a local hotel, he declared that his deed was one of his own, free will and accord, but gave no reason for it.

In addition to the letters to his sweetheart and to the undertaker, he left a sealed letter for his parents. It is believed that in it he gave some reason for his deed.

Gunn was known as the "Human Menagerie," owing to his wonderful ability to imitate the sound of almost any animal.

The remains will be brought to Dalton for interment.

POWERS ARE TRYING TO PRESERVE PEACE

Expected That Big Nations Will Join Today in Demand for Demobilization.

London, June 12.—With the "little white father of all the slavs" warning the Balkan states of wrath to come and beseeching them to avoid a fratricidal war, and France keeping the war chest closed tight, the chances of preserving peace among the allies is improving. But the situation is still critical.

The powers may join the Russian emperor in the demand that the allies demobilize and since the opposition at Sofia argues immediate action, the question of war or peace ought to be decided by the end of the week.

A Belgrade despatch to the Daily Telegraph says:—

"The Servian minister to Bulgaria has left here for Sofia with final instructions which, he is to present to the Bulgarian government. If Bulgaria delays a definite answer to the request for an early meeting of the premiers of the allies, the minister is instructed to leave Sofia.

"General Putnik, chief of the general staff of the Servian army, has left to resume command at Uskup. It is currently reported that he has received instructions to repel with the utmost vigor any attack by the Bulgarians and oppose any attempt on their part to cross the Servian line of demarkation."

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE TIFT COUNTY CROPS

Tifton, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—The dry weather of April and May, which reduced the average stand of cotton about 20 per cent, has been followed by a week's almost continuous rain. Fields which were clean the first of June are becoming grassy, and a week of fair weather is badly needed. Cotton plants are healthy and growing fast, especially early plantings. The cool weather the first of this week did not retard the growth to any appreciable extent.

GOVERNOR RECIPIENT OF SILVER SERVICE

It was a genuine surprise that his friends of the national guard sprang upon Governor Brown Tuesday night when he was giving a reception to the graduating class of the Georgia School of Technology. So carefully had the secret of what was coming been preserved that it is said that, outside of the members of the national guard who had contributed to the "surprise," only Mrs. Brown and Private Secretary Jesse Perry had been informed.

The governor had invited some of the members of his official staff to attend the reception. When all were gathered in the receiving parlor Colonel P. J. Paxon, chief of staff, rose and presented to the governor on behalf of his military friends a magnificent silver service. Colonel Paxon made an appropriate speech, telling the governor in what high regard he was held by the military of the state, at which the governor appeared to be deeply moved. The service is a very handsome one, said to have cost about $1,000

By breaking even in the double-header with the Barons in Birmingham Wednesday, the Crackers won the odd game of the series and eight out of eleven the two teams have played.

Two Out of Three From Barons

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Easy Picking.

THE BARONS have been easy picking for the Crackers this season. The two teams have played eleven games, the Crackers winning eight and only three being taken by the Barons. Bill Prough has won two of the three games the Barons have won. This is just a reverse of the case of former years. The Barons used to mop with the Crackers regularly.

Four Are Tied.

FOUR Southern league twirlers are tied for the honor of leading the Southern league twirlers and the handsome diamond-studded medal that Randolph Rose gives to the best pitcher this season. Coveleskie of Chattanooga, Price of Atlanta, Williams of Nashville and Robertson of Mobile are the leading hurlers, each with .800 per cent. The first named has won twelve and lost three, while the other three have each won eight and lost two.

All Praise.

WALLOP SMITH deserves the lion's share of the credit for the two victories of the Crackers in Slagville. It was his two-ply smash that packed the fourteen-inning game on ice, and yesterday he got a triple, with Bailey on first base, after the game had gone one round past the agreed-upon seven-inning sessions. Welchonce and Thompson also hit well, with three hits each.

Has Caught Tommy.

WELCHONCE is in full sail after his teammate, Tommy Long. Harry has rapped out 76 hits to date and Long the same number. The race between these two should be interesting. Welchonce went like a house afire in the Birmingham series, getting eight hits in thirteen times up. Long also had a swell time, with six Smith also had a swell time, with six hits in twelve times up. Between them they got more than half of the Crackers' hits during the series.

In Lookoutville.

THE CRACKERS tackle the mountain men of Elberfeld by the shades of Lookout Mountain today. Friday and Saturday will be the last visit of the team to the Tennessee city was very profitable. Here's hoping that the present trip will be as successful. To date the Lookouts have been able to win but one pastime from the locals.

Lookout Records.

HARRY WELCHONCE seems set for a better season this year with the stick than last, when he led the Southern league hitters. The speedy center gardener is just now coming into his own and has been climbing rapidly the past few days. Hits have all been timely, too, and for extra bases when the bases were reeling.

Lots of Tennis.

TENNIS will occupy the center of the stage for the next few weeks. Next Saturday at the Piedmont Driving club the Georgia state championship will be played. The following Saturday at Augusta the South Atlantic championships will start and June 28 at New Orleans the southern championships begin. Atlantans will play in all the events.

Facts in Case.

CHATTANOOGA players are said to be up in arms over the panning that the Atlanta papers handed Curtis Elston when he threw Agler down in one of the games here last week. Agler, they Elston tried to avoid Agler, so as to keep from injuring him. The facts in the case are these. Elston had already passed first base. Agler, on account of an error. When he threw wild he deliberately grabbed Agler by the shoulders and threw him down. Deliberately—is the word. It was premeditated. Far from trying to avoid Agler, which he could have done easily as there was no close play, he grabbed the first baseman and hurled him to the ground violently. Elston got off considerably lighter than he deserved.

The Castoffs.

SOUTHERN league clubs have a peculiar personnel this season. There is not a team in the league that does not possess a castoff from some other team in the league. Birmingham has the smallest number, Bill Foxen, a former Cracker, being on their roster. Nashville has the most with six.

Up in Arms.

TY COBB is up in arms and justly so over the panning handed him by the Philadelphia scribes who claim that the great Georgian is playing for his release and not giving the Detroit management his best services. Cobb resents this. All that is necessary for any sane person to place the Quaker scribes in the front ranks of the asinine bunch is to glance at Cobb's batting average. That throws it right back at them.

SAVAGE AND WHITE HERE FOR BATTLE

Club Physician Pronounces the Heavies Fit for Friday's Go at the Auditorium-Armory.

Jim Savage and Sailor White, the heavyweights, who meet at the Auditorium-Armory Friday night in a boxing contest, have gone into training in Atlanta. They arrived in good order, were measured and examined by Dr. Louis C. Rouglin, the club physician, and at once beat it to their training quarters.

Savage will work out while here at the Armory, while White and his training crew will use the gymnasium at a local club.

Both men were declared in good condition by Dr. Rouglin. White, in particular, trained right down to the last notch. He showed 203 pounds on the office scales, and if he took off another ounce he would go stale. That is absolutely down to the limit. He is positively right.

Even Break at Slagville; Wallop Breaks Up Second; Welchonce Busy With Stick

By Hugh W. Roberts.

Birmingham, Ala., June 11.—(Special.)—Two mighty raps decided both games today when the Barons and the Crackers divided a double program. Walter Mayer's terrific drive with the score congested drove three Barons across the rubber and dragged the Barons from the slough of despair, defeating the Crackers 4 to 3.

After the second game had progressed into extra innings Wally Smith rocked the right field fence with a slashing drive and transported Bailey home with the winning run.

Both struggles were twirling duels and intensely exciting from the first round. In the initial bout Prough and Musser waged a merry contest. Let down with three scattered safeties, the Barons went over Musser, while Prough held the Crackers in check with five safe drives. The Baron slabman yielded not a base on erring slants, but the Cracker hurler gave five passed to first. Both were effective in the pinches, but Mayer's drive decided a pretty twirling duel.

With Thompson pitted against the Southpaw Price, the second battle resolved itself into a fierce fight. The collegian was solved for eight swats, while the southpaw was touched for five scattered hits. So consistently did the twirlers serve that neither team secured a base on balls.

Wallop Hits Fence.

The former collegian pulled out of many close places with an unblemished record until the seven-inning game rocked into the eighth session, and with two down Wally Smith uncorked a luscious wallop against the right field border and sent Bailey across the platter with the decisive tally.

The swatting honors were divided among a chosen few, for in general the contestants were at the mercy of the twirlers.

Harry Welchonce featured the double bill by rapping two safeties in three trials in the opening battle and swatting three out of four in the final game. Thompson made a nervy attempt to win out in the seventh when upon every attempt at the bat he landed safely. Wally Smith was the undoing of the former collegian, for he obtained three safe hits in the second game, the last swat winning the game.

Large William McGilvray regained his batting optic in the battles, for in the first he secured a hit, a walk and reached first on a hard hit drive while in the second he rapped a screaming double, was hit by a misplaced twist and smote the pellet to second on the other trial.

First Scoring.

Long piled open the first battle by rapping Prough's offering to left for a single. Welchonce hit a fierce grounder to Marcan, who retarded the motion of the ball somewhere, but failed to hold it. Alpermann advanced the runners with a sacrifice to Carroll. Bailey rolled a slow grounder to Prough, who threw to the plate to catch Long. Although the return seemed to kill the sprinter by 2 feet, Umpire Fifield decided to the contrary and Long shook and groans. On Smith's grounder to Elam, Welchonce tallied, but Bisland ended the session with a drive to center.

The Barons counted one in their half of the frame when Marcan and Messenger drew passes. Prough left McBride failed to advance the runners, but McGilvray slashed a liner to left, which Long fumbled, Marcan crossed the plate, and a quick recovery nabbed Messenger at third.

Prough held the Crackers at his mercy during the rest of the battle. Although two other singles were obtained off his offerings, the following rival batsmen fell before the slants and the fortunate batters never reached the keystone. While Prough was holding the Crackers in check Marcan was the master of the Barons. Although the locals reached second, Musser pulled out of the difficulties with colors flying.

Mayer Cleans Sacks.

In the sixth Musser had a siege of wildness and was defeated. After Messenger had lined out to left Knisely drew a pass. McBride dropped a Texas leaguer to left, which Long reached but was unable to hold. A wild heave caused the Baron leader to temporarily pick Knisely off second and both runners advanced a hassock. McGilvray's willow wielding caused a consultation and Musser issued free walk, thus congesting the paths. Upon the second ball hurled Mayer stung it fiercely upon the nose for a double on the score board and freed the cushions of their freight.

The Crackers were unable to score in their half of the seventh.

Following the performance in the first battle Atlanta scored in the opening frame of the second. With Long out, Welchonce continued his wonderful hitting with a double to left. Alpermann rolled a grounder to Elam, but the latter bounded through his glove, permitting Welchonce to count. Although Smith hit safely after Thompson had passed Bisland rolled out, Carroll to McGilvray.

Price held the Barons without a swat through the first two innings, but the locals rallied in the third, with Carroll out, and deadlocked the battle.

Elliam beat out an infield hit to Smith and took third on Thompson's first single. In attempting to stop the short fielder at third Bisland threw wildly and permitted the score to be tied. On the erring heave Thompson reached second. When Marcan put a long drive to right Elam and Harrell rushed off second and before he could be sent back by his coach Bailey doubled him up at second. Evidently thinking that there were two out, the twirler lost an excellent opportunity to win his game.

Battle Fiercely.

With the score tied, the teams fought fiercely to capture the game, but the pitchers passed twirling of the two moundsmen held the marksmen in the pinches.

In the fifth McGilvray opened with a double to right. Price checked the following batters and saved the game. In the preceding session Thompson had downed the side with second and first occupied with one out.

After the scheduled battle of seven innings had advanced into the eighth the tide of the game changed and the Crackers triumphed. Welchonce's mighty clout smote the ball to center for a single. Whitey Alpermann's hunt sent him to the keystone, while Mayer's passed ball allowed him to make third.

Bailey rapped a roller to Elliam, who relieved the attendance by cutting Welchonce off at the plate, but Wally Smith rocked the right field fence with a long drive and Bailey cavorted home with the winning run.

Price disposed of the Barons in their half of the ninth.

Lookouts 3, Vols 1.

Nashville, Tenn., June 11.—Coveleskie pitched splendid ball this afternoon, holding Nashville to four scattered hits, Chattanooga winning the last game of the series, 3 to 1. Nashville's only run was caused by Coyle's error in the fourth. In the first inning Coveleskie walked three men with only one out, but retired the side without a run by splendid work. Scouts Joe Hughes, of Detroit, and Lou Criger, of Cleveland, the new Cracker twirler, recently secured from Pittsburg, will draw the assignment.

Harry Chapman, the Crackers' malmed catcher, is well again. He left Atlanta last night, and will probably handle Conzelman's slants in the opening pastime.

Just who the Lookouts will work is not known just yet, but either Kroh or Coveleskie will probably draw the assignment. Here is the probable batting order of the two teams:

Crackers Play Lookouts; Three-Game Series Opens In Lookoutville Today

The Crackers pulled out of Slagville last night after a victorious assault on the stronghold of the Barons, and today they open up a three-game series with the men of Elberfeld, at Chattanooga.

The Crackers pried open the season of 1913 in Lookoutville, winning the three games played there, Buck Weaver, Gil Price and Paul Musser winning the games in the order named. This is the first visit of the Crackers to Lookoutville since that time.

But the Lookouts have visited Atlanta twice since that time, dropping four games and winning but one in the five decisions rendered, giving the Crackers a total of seven victories to one defeat against Elberfeld's crew to date.

Just who will oppose the Lookouts this afternoon in the opener is not certain, but it is more than likely that Joe

MAY DIVIDE SEASON IN EMPIRE LEAGUE

Cordele, Ga., June 11.—(Special.)—President Groover, of the Empire State league, has called a meeting of the league directors to be held in Cordele on next Friday.

While it is stated that the meeting is to be held especially for the purpose of discussing and taking action upon business of the league of routine nature, it is understood that the question will be taken under consideration of dividing the season, as originally mapped out under the present schedule, with forty-five games in each of the two seasons so formed.

In case of a division of the season, and in event one club did not take all honors, the winners in the two seasons would engage in a series for the championship of the league.

It is believed that if no action is taken in this matter an extension of the season will be taken under advisement.

Waycross won the cup with a paid attendance of 2,726, Brunswick being second. Mr. Brewer will exhibit the cup when it arrives and hopes to have the pleasure of placing it side by side with the 1913 pennant later on this year.

TO STOP BOXING IN NEW YORK DURING THE HOT MONTHS

New York, June 11.—A suggestion to stop all boxing exhibitions in New York state during the months of June, July and August was favorably received today by the New York State Athletic commission. The proposed rule, it was said, will be adopted to take effect next year.

Members of the commission pointed out that boxing was the only standard sport that was followed the year round. They believed the sport would benefit by having its special season, like baseball, football and hockey.

White Sox 1, Yanks 0.

New York, June 11.—Chicago evened up the series with New York today, Russell, a left-hander, shutting out the locals, 1 to 0. Mattick and Collins starred at bat. Chicago hit Fisher hard, making 11 hits in 8 innings. McKechnie and Weaver made Spectacular leaping catches.

Washington, June 11.—Detroit was in a batting mood today and easily shut out Washington, 11 to 0. Dauss pitched his second winning game of the series. Crawford hit a home run to the center field fence in the second inning, with the bases full, and later Cobb drove one over the fence with first occupied. Washington used three pitchers.

Philadelphia, June 11.—With two men out, a home run by Catcher Sam Agnew scoring two runners ahead of him in the ninth inning today checked Philadelphia's winning streak of fifteen consecutive victories and gave St. Louis the final game of the series, 5 to 2. Austin was benched for protesting a decision at third.

Boston, June 11.—A fifteen-inning contest between Boston and Cleveland ended about sunset with a 9 to 5 victory for Cleveland, with the bases full in the final inning Olson stole home. After Ryan popped to Leonard in an effort to work the squeeze play Graney drew a pass, filling the bases again. Land singled, sending Jackson and Lajoie over the plate, Graney taking third and Land second on the throw in. Graney then stole home and Land went to third. Land also tried to steal, but Gregg swung at the ball for the third strike, ending the inning.

The game was replete with brilliant playing, Cleveland getting an early lead, which promised victory. Boston went after Gregg in the sixth inning and by good hitting and the wildness of Gregg scored five runs. Two of these tallies were forced in by bases on balls, another resulted from a sacrifice fly and the final pair was due to Carrigan's double.

MOTOR BOAT DREAM WINS BERMUDA RACE

Barbara II. Finished First, But Dream's Time Allowance Offset the Handicap.

Hamilton, Bermuda, June 11.—The motorboat Barbara II. crossed the finishing line at 26 minutes, 20 seconds past 2 o'clock this morning in the race from Philadelphia, which started on Saturday at 1:30 p. m. She was first sighted at 10 minutes after midnight.

The Dream, owned by Charles L. Lagen, of the Yachtsmen's club, the smallest of the contestants in the motorboat race from Philadelphia to St. Davids Head, Bermuda, crossed the finishing line at 25 minutes past 4 o'clock this evening.

The Dream had a time allowance of 16 hours, 44 minutes and 56 seconds over the scratch boat, Barbara II., which crossed the finishing line at 25 minutes and 20 seconds after 3 o'clock this morning.

According to the unofficial corrected time, the Dream is winner of the race by 3 hours, 14 minutes and 56 seconds.

QUERIES ANSWERED

Under this head the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: A bets B he can pick the winners. Bell games go more than five innings and one lost. Does A lose?
J. S. Jr.
Yes.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: In a game of ball a day or so ago there was a discussing as to whether a certain ball was a safe hit or not. A runner was on first. With one man down, the next batter hit a ball on a line over second. The center fielder got the ball on the first bounce and threw to second, forcing the runner out at second. Was it a hit or not? It was impossible to get the batter at first.
F. H. S.
No, it is not a hit. The rule plainly states that "In no case shall a batter be credited with a hit when a base-runner is forced out."

Asheville Crew Wins.

Asheville, N. C., June 11.—On a clear lake this afternoon the crew of the Asheville school won from that of the Washington and Lee university by five lengths, in the annual boat race. The local oarsmen showed better form and had but little trouble in winning. The race was witnessed by a mammoth crowd, marking the last of the commencement exercises of the Asheville school.

Loughridge, aged 67, widow of William Loughridge, who died Tuesday at her suburban home, Cliffview, was held today and the interment was at the family cemetery in Murray county. She leaves eight children: Mrs. R. P. Gregory, Letnia; Amos and Luther Loughridge, of Dalton; Mrs. William McIver, of Graham, Fla.; Jack and Ben Loughridge, of Atlanta, and Cleve Loughridge, of Texas.

Tech Officials and Graduates Honored by Chamber of Commerce

The appreciation of the citizens of Atlanta for the work being done at Tech was extended to the faculty trustees and members of the graduating class of that institution through the medium of the chamber of commerce at a luncheon at the Capital City club Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

In the ballroom of the club building about 250 guests were seated. The genuineness of the occasion was evidenced by the large percentage of the membership of the chamber of commerce, especially from the ranks of the leaders in all of the city's business and industrial lines, who attended the dinner, rousing collegs yells enlivened the event.

Moore Praises Tech.

Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber, presided at the dinner. In his speech he expressed in glowing terms the great value the city places upon the presence of such an institution as Tech in its midst, and impressed upon the members of the senior class the importance of the responsibilitil which rests upon their shoulders for the future prosperity of the state. A significant remark of Mr. Moore's was, "I trust that the chamber's luncheon to Tech will become an annual event."

Governor Brown stated that he had reason to believe that the appropriations for the maintenance and improvement of Tech would shortly be doubled, which statement brought forth a thunderous round of applause and a lusty cheer from the graduates. Governor Brown summed up his appreciation of Georgia Tech and the great work being accomplished there in his analysis of the word, "daisy," which blossom is the official flower of the institution.

Flower Tells Story.

"The word 'daisy,'" said he, "is derived originally from the real name of the flower—day's eye. That this flower should have been selected for your official flower, I think, is very appropriate and significant, for your institution is in reality the eye of the state in the great day of progress."

Professor Matheson, whom Mr. Moore, in referring to his ability to finance the institution, characterized as "the best lobbyist in Georgia," extended the thanks of the Tech to the chamber of commerce and the people of Atlanta for the support and cooperation they had lent him in the upbuilding of the college, and pledged them the best technological institution in the southern states for the continuation of this support.

"What money is," he said, "is always acceptable. "It is not so much that that we want as it is your individual and personal interest in Tech."

"How can Randolph Anderson have that many votes," he said, "when I have that many myself, if not more. Twenty-five senators have already promised that they will vote for me, and I know that they would not pledge themselves to both sides."

So that is the situation. Each has twenty-five votes sewed up in a sack, if his account of the situation is to be accepted, and it takes only twenty-three votes to elect.

Hardeman to Open Headquarters.

Things are promising to liven up a bit in the peakership race, notwithstanding the fact that the politicians generally seem willing to concede that plum to W. H. Burwell, of Hancock. R. N. Hardeman, of Jefferson, let it be known Wednesday that he was still very much in the race by engaging headquarters at the Kimball house, which he expects to occupy within the next few days. He intends to make a vigorous campaign from now on until the vote is taken.

PUT RIVAL CANDIDATES IN ADJOINING ROOMS

Anderson and Allen, Next Door Neighbors at Kimball, Each Claim 25 Votes.

It was as nearly in the same bed that John Randolph Anderson, of Chatham, and John T. Allen, of Baldwin, the rival candidates for the presidency of the state senate, slept last night, as the management of the Kimball house could put them. Both were here in the interest of their respective candidates, and they were assigned to adjoining rooms in the hotel.

Judge Allen has been in the city for several days. His room was No. 211. When Mr. Anderson arrived last night he was assigned to No. 213. Friends of Judge Allen saw in the number awarded to Mr. Anderson a good omen for their candidate, but the latter declared that he was not at all superstitious, and that the result of the election was so near a foregone conclusion that no hoodoo sign could change it now.

Each Confident As Ever.

Each of the candidates is as confident as ever of his election. Mr. Anderson said:

"I know whereof I am speaking and I am certain of twenty-five votes. They are just as sure to go to me as if they were already cast. I am willing to concede Judge Allen ten votes, and nine are in doubt."

Judge Allen, on the other hand, poopooed Mr. Anderson's claim.

McDonald Fractures Finger.

Birmingham, Ala., June 11.—(Special.)—Third Baseman Eddie McDonald fractured the third finger of his throwing hand this afternoon during fielding practice. While throwing to first he snapped his hand so violently that the finger was thrown out of place. The fracture is slight, and McDonald will probably return to the game Saturday.

"Uncle Phil" Dies.

Washington, June 11.—Anthony Phillips, an old Georgia negro, known as "Uncle Phil" among the Southern railway lines, and whose annual 'possum dinners were a delight to the late President Spencer and other officials of the railway, is dead. His body was taken to Atlanta today for burial.

"QUO VADIS" PICTURES COMING TO THE GRAND

Supplying the actual atmosphere of Roman society of nearly 2,000 years ago, is one of the claims made by the projectors of the marvelous "Quo Dadis" pictures now on view at the Astor theater, and the claim is being substantiated through the medium of the New York mail service. Almost every delivery at the Astor theater brings a communication for one or another of the cast of Italian and French actors who took part in the production of "Quo Vadis" and whose names appear on the theater program preceding as very complete scenario.

"Quo Vadis" will be the attraction at the Grand commencing with matinee on Monday and continuing twice daily the rest of the week.

There is nothing in Goodrich Advertising that isn't in Goodrich Goods

The B. F. Goodrich Co. Invented Their Way Into the Leadership of the Tire Field.

Inventive genius, cultivated and developed in our 27 years of rubber manufacturing before the days of automobile tires, evolved the Goodrich principle of unit molding.

Unit molding is no theoretical proposition.

It fixed itself 16 years ago, when we made the original American clincher tire.

It was based upon accurate knowledge of crude rubber, of compounding rubber and of building and vulcanizing rubber products.

The tread of a Goodrich Tire, instead of being what you usually think of as a "tread"—a separate part—is actually the outside of the tire.

It is of it and not merely put on it.

This is one reason why the thick, tough treads of Goodrich Tires do not peel or strip.

The secret of this lies in the Goodrich principle of Unit-Molding.

The whole tire—layers of rubber-impregnated fabric, layers of pure rubber, extra side strips of pure rubber to reinforce the tire where the strain comes and eliminate chances for rim injury, beads, and thick, tough tread—has been converted into a single piece—a unit.

You could not slip the thinnest knife blade between the layers, for there are no layers.

You can now see how and why Goodrich Tires are made and molded to give you long, uniform, comfortable, satisfactory wear.

Your tire dealer will supply you with the Goodrich Tire best suited to your needs. No matter what car you buy or own you can have it equipped with Goodrich Tires if you specify them.

Write us for our free folders telling how to get the best service from your tires and how to avoid the common injuries.

WEATHER RECORDS ARE AGAIN BROKEN

Cold Spell Has Been Broken, Declares Forecaster Von Herrmann.

June weather records were smashed again yesterday. The thermometer at 7 a. m. stood 49 degrees, the coldest 11th of June experienced in thirty-five years, and the coldest day in June since June 13, 1903, when the mercury hung for a few seconds at 46.

However, old Sol came out during the day, and at one time the thermometer registered as high as 66 degrees. "The cold spell has been broken," said Observer von Herrmann Wednesday, "and it is going to get hotter, and hotter still. The sun was all that saved us, and if predictions come true, it will continue to shine fiercely for some time."

According to Mr. von Herrmann, the three days past are the coldest three days ever experienced in June for the past thirty-five years, the average minimum temperature being 54 degrees, as against 56 degrees for June 11, 12 and 13 in 1903.

MAYOR HAS NOT ACTED ON JUNE MONEY SHEET

Executive Has Four Days to Consider It, So Council Is Forced to Adjourn.

When council met yesterday afternoon to pass on the June appropriation sheet, which carries $260,000 for the cash purchase of the crematory, City Clerk Walter Taylor made the announcement that the sheet had not been returned by the mayor.

Mayor Woodward admitted that he had not approved the sheet, and explained that it was not placed in his hands until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. He said that he had not been given sufficient time to study the sheet, and would exercise his prerogative to hold the sheet four full days from the date upon which council adjourns. The decision of the mayor means that the sheet will not get to council Monday afternoon, and that another special meeting will be necessary next Thursday.

When council met in regular session last Monday it adjourned until Wednesday to take up the finance committee report on the June sheet. The city code requires that the mayor have four days after the adjournment of council in which to approve or disapprove papers passed up to him. Mayor Woodward takes the position that the meeting Wednesday was only an adjourned session, and that he still has four days to act. Council did not take issue with the mayor and adjourned.

"It seems to me that the sheet could have been sent to me before today," Mayor Woodward said. "It is an important matter, and I don't propose to act hastily on it. Maybe I can satisfy myself before Monday and return the sheet for final adoption."

Mayor Woodward denied that he was trying to delay the purchase of the crematory. He explained that the sweeping decision of the supreme court has made it necessary for him to be careful that nothing in the sheet conflicts with the injunction.

BUTLER STREET SEWER WORK BEGINS THIS WEEK

Work on the Butler street sewer will be started this week, according to members of the county commission.

Authentic reports given out Wednesday indicate that the work will be started before the end of the week. It is understood that the steam shovel has been ordered moved to the Fourth ward, and the stone quarry has been stripped preparatory to blasting rock to be used on the work.

The Butler street sewer improvement is one of the most important projects in the Fourth ward of the city, and one which Councilmen Claude L. Ashley and Albert Thomson have been working hard to get the city and county to recognise.

Once the work is started it will be rushed to completion, as there are no other projects to enterfere.

PLUMBING ORDINANCE SIGNED BY THE MAYOR

Mayor James G. Woodward put his signature to the new plumbing ordinance, Wednesday morning, and it is now a law to be enforced by the city health board. The ordinance requires master plumbers to register with the chief plumbing inspector of the board of health before doing business, and receive a certificate when the applicant makes bond.

The ordinance, according to labor union advocates who urged its adoption, will have the effect of guarding the public against irresponsible and incompetent men who pose as plumbers. The board of health considers the ordinance another step to insure sanitary methods of installation.

A literary and dramatic entertainment will be given by local branch 71, of the Jewish national workers alliance, tonight, at 8 o'clock at the Jewish educational alliance, 50 Capitol avenue. Admission will be ten cents, and the proceeds will go toward supporting a monthly magazine.

MOTORCYCLE RACES ON NEXT TUESDAY

The grand opening of the Atlanta motordome is still in prospect. But at least another definite date has been set. This one is Tuesday night, June 17.

Jack Prince believes that the weather hoodoo will die a natural death before then, and that it will be possible to hold the races all right. If it is not, the affair will be postponed from night to night.

Prince and Manager Noon Hudson are determined to get a good night for the opening if it takes all summer. They feel sure that the misplaced winter will go back where it belongs before June 17, and that, with ordinary luck, they will have a clear night then. If they do there will be a full moon on tap to lend its illumination to the open-air track.

The full card of races, just as originally planned, is being carried over for Tuesday night.

And lots of men try to substitute other things for character in business.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON LESS ACTIVE AND PRICES DECLINED

Realizing, Scattered Selling and Warmer Weather Caused the Decline.

New York, June 11.—The cotton market was less active today and prices eased off, under realizing by recent buyers and scattered selling encouraged by rains reported locally and warmer weather in the south. The close was steady, but at a net decline of from 7 to 12 points.

The market opened at a decline of 1 to 6 points, in response to lower Liverpool cables. Offerings were not very heavy and reports of low night temperatures in the eastern belt rallied new crop months to about the closing figures of last night during the early trading.

Liverpool was a moderate buyer of July, August and October here, and there were rumors that above 12 cents for July yesterday some cotton was sold against prospective shipments from the south and that relatively easy ruling of the near months, combined with indications for more seasonable weather in the belt, seemed to discourage any important support. The market, consequently, soon turned easier and prices eased off in the afternoon on Memphis and New Orleans selling, rumors that the south was selling hedges against the prospective early new crop movement in New Orleans, and reports that one or two of the local spot houses were selling July against actual cotton and shipments from points in the Atlantic belt.

Closing prices were practically the lowest of the day.

Private wires from Memphis reported rising temperatures there this afternoon, and it was said that only lot of new crop cotton for July shipment from Galveston was offered in the New Orleans market.

Rumors of a bearish report by a prominent traveling crop expert on the crop outlook between New Orleans and Memphis were a factor on the decline, and some of the selling on the at break may have been encouraged by the renewed weakness of the stock market. Rumors of a private settlement in July were not confirmed.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 11. The cotton market today was nervous and narrow in the morning session, the trade having declined freely in the afternoon there was a tendency to want movement in selling for both account and commission houses. The general stock market as a general feeling that the market was weak with a break in the prices of the recent heavy buying. Gossip of the floor said that the long side missed the support that had been coming from covering shorts. Many brokers claimed that the short interest is practically cleaned up, that the market was actually overbought. The unseasonable cold weather in the belt reported in many with a few sections has little influence on prices.

On the call the tone was steady and prices were 1 point up to 1 point down. The rides made early in the session carried the old and new weather map and the forecast of more precipitation in some of the early trading and prices fell 10 points. This was the high level of the day, during the afternoon the market was 5 to 6 points under yesterday's close. The ward the middle of the afternoon was a partial recovery but in the afternoon the market weakened standing at the lowest net decline of the day, 15 points and closing steady at a net decline of 4 to 15 points.

Remarks.

Rain has been reported from all except Mobile, Memphis and Little Rock districts. Unusually heavy rains in Florida and Georgia.

a-Minimum temperatures are for 12-hour period ending at 8 a. m. 75th meridian time. b-Record not included in averages. c-Highest yesterday. ss-Lowest for 24 hours ending 8 a. m. 75th meridian time.

NOTE—The average highest and lowest temperatures are made up from such reports as the actual number of reports received and the average precipitation from such reports, not reporting 0.10 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Section Director Weather Bureau.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, June 11.—Lower prices in Liverpool and a less urgent demand for cash here stimulated more liberal selling of the new crop future, under which prices declined somewhat more than over the nearby months of the year. Very little has been done in short interest in the new crop months and reports of selling are plentiful, notwithstanding the advance. Except for new temperatures complained regarding the new crop are of a scattered kind, and not serious from any one section of the belt.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, June 11.—Talk of Indian cotton here for delivery, while it seems to have lessened some, is not dead yet, about 12 points lower than yesterday's high. Advices the same belt as white Oomra was lowered 1-16 per lb today. The market was filled with bearish pressures from the belt, which was one factor in the big short interest in the new crop months. Cotton may ease off a little more, but the mills of the world seem ready to buy new crop cotton around 11c, so there is not much on the selling side, and any bad crop news would start a sensational advance at any time.

Liverpool is due to come 2 to 3 down.

Coffee.

New York, June 11.—Coffee futures opened easy, at an advance of 6 to 10 points, as a result of offering a little buying for a recovery from the decline of yesterday and in sympathy of the firmer advance at Havre. Cost and freight offerings from Brazil were steady and light offers in some instances, but there was nothing more than a scattering demand. Later cables from Europe were easier, and prices here soon developed some market breaking sharply in the late trading under renewed liquidation by local longs, which may have been encouraged by the late break in the stock market. The close was steady.

Rio futures closed unchanged to 10 points lower.

Rio, quiet; Cordova, 14@17 nominal.

Havre unchanged to ½ franc higher. Hamburg ½ pfennig lower. Rio 125 reis lower.

Receipts at Rio, 6,000 against 6,000 last year.

DRY WEATHER SCARE MADE WHEAT ADVANCE

Market Closed Steady, Seven-Eighths to Cent and Half Up.

Chicago, June 11—Important enlargement of investment demand consequent to some extent on the possibility of a dry weather scare in the spring crop belt, led to a decided upturn today in wheat. The market closed steady at a net advance of 7-8 to 1 1-2c. Corn gained 2-4@7-8c to 1 1-8@1 1-4c, and oats 1-4 to 3-8@1-2c. In provisions, the outcome was the same as last night to 12 1-2c up.

Trade in wheat broadened from the start. Besides the lack of rain northwest, there was encouragement for bulls in the early cheerfulness regarding stocks and because of hints of renewed export inquiry. Aggressive leadership, too counted a good deal in driving shorts to cover, and forcing prices higher.

Corn finished at the highest level of the season. Lightness of stocks here and damage reports from Central Illinois formed the chief incentive of buyers.

Most of the strength of oats was derived from wheat and corn.

Profit-taking by longs restrained provisions from an all-round advance with grain and hogs. The close was unsettled.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

The leading financiers and bankers of Atlanta are taking an optimistic view of th financial conditions in Atlanta and the state in comparison to those in the east, and in Wall street in particular.

The financiers of Wall street are today about the bluest set of people in this country over the tightness of money, while in Atlanta the outlook is fine. All conservative lines of business are able to get any accommodations they want from the banks, business is good, the demand for money is no greater than it usually is at this time of year and, best of all, the cotton crop this year not only bids fair to be a bumper crop, but will be produced much cheaply than any crop in several years.

The bankers of Atlanta predict beginning about October a period of unprecedented prosperity.

Real Estate News.

The Bluebird Realty company has sold for John B. Thompson to Mrs. Mary Tate Holland the Piedmont Villa apartments on Piedmont avenue between Pine and Currier streets a four-apartment brick building on a lot 99.55 x150, on the east side of the avenue, for $16,500. Mr. Thompson took as part payment Nos. 20, 22 and 24 Daniel street, negro apartments property, between Edgewood avenue and Decatur street, valued at $7,000.

The $440,000 exchange of farm and city property effected by Cheatham Brothers between L. C. Durham, of Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, June 11.—A reaction after the sharp advance of yesterday was amatarially in order and it was interpreted by the weakness and lack of confidence in financial circles. Probably few noticed the agreement of Bulgaria to submit the dispute with her allies to arbitration. This, in turn, means a slow release of the hoarded gold in Europe as soon as it becomes settled. Many rumors of a settlement in July were current, but we do not know who is to settle. As the foreign holders of July are scattered, who have bought here on a profitable import basis with Liverpool, possibly at some price or difference they might sell, but no one knows anything about it. We now estimate the stock here at about 40,000 bales on July 1. Crop advices are conflicting—good from northern Texas and poor from the Atlantic. Speculation is bearish.

NORTH SIDE ACREAGE

Most all of us have looked with envy upon our more fortunate acquaintances who have for years and years owned an "OLD FARM" in north Fulton county and who have sold out lately at the present value of the land, making a fortune over the original price.

We are going to offer a magnificent tract of 136 acres, 3½ miles from Buckhead and 9 miles from the city, at regular "OLD FARM PRICES." This land is on one of the most popular roads in Fulton county, thereby always assuring it of a ready market. If you are in the market for a splendid investment phone us and we will be glad to call and give you full particulars.
